Provisions must be made by air intakes to replace air exhausted from the establishments to the outside.

6.7 A scavenger duct shall be provided in the service area at each unit and shall be designed to pick up vapors surrounding the equipment near the floor. The suction inlet for these scavenger ducts shall be located not less than two or more than six inches above the floor and shall exhaust 300 [linear] cubic feet of air per minute.

COURT DECISION.

Matter of Hirschfeld vs. Board:—On July 10, 1962, the Board denied his applications, based on the decisions of the Borough Superintendent, to permit in a business use district, the erection of a four story and cellar building for use as an open type parking garage under Calendar Number 1815-61-BZ; also under Calendar Number 1816-61-A in regard to opening in rear of building; Premises 166-172 West 58th Street, south side, 125 feet east of Seventh Avenue, Block 1010, Lots 57, 58 58½ and 59 Borough of Manhattan.

At Supreme Court Special Term, Part I, Mr. Justice Nathan stated, as follows:

"Accordingly, the determination of respondents denying rehearing and reargument of the application of August 20, 1962, is annulled as being unreasonable, arbitrary and not in conformance with the provisions of the new Zoning Resolution and this matter is remanded back to respondents with the direction that rehearing and reargument is to be granted and a determination made not inconsistent with the Zoning Resolution in effect prior to December 15, 1961."

(N. Y. Law Journal, February 13, 1963, page 14).

At Supreme Court, Special Term, Part I, Mr. Justice Nathan rendered the following decision:

"Motion is granted to the extent that leave is granted to appeal from the order made and entered herein on February 7, 1963, and is in other respects denied. Respondents are directed to prosecute their appeal expeditiously."

USE: Gas fired conversion burner.

DESCRIPTION: The burners are of the mechanical draft type and consist of a power-type gas burner incorporating a button type gas manifold. Manual-proved or automatic gas-electric proved pilot is provided for ignition of the main gas supply.

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

1689-61-SA—Kidde Manufacturing Company, Incorporated, Bloomfield, N.J., filed for approval of the appliance known as Kidde Cold Water Glass Washer and Sanitizer, Model 300A, under the provisions of the Submerged Inlet Rules of the Board.

USE: A machine for washing drinking glasses.

DESCRIPTION: The operation of the Glasswasher is as follows:

The machine is driven by an electric motor. This motor, through a belt and gear drive, rotates the brushes and the brush assemblies.

The machine is connected to the city cold water supply and the piping assembly contains an approved vacuum breaker, check valve and a flow control. The flow control regulates the amount of water passing through the machine at 1¼ gallons per minute when a glass is being washed. A continuous leak of water through a small hole in the valve stem delivers water to the brushes at all times when the water supply is turned on to provide a self cleaning action for the brushes.

The washing operation on a tumbler consists of pressing a glass over the center brush to the point where the inside surface of the bottom of the glass depresses the valve stem. This allows city cold water to go to the detergent pump where pressure builds up due to piping resistance between the pump and the standpipes and the center brush. The water pressure in the pump depresses a diaphragm assembly against spring pressure and forces into the water stream passing through the pump .2 of a cubic centimeter of detergent sanitizer. This small amount of detergent is carried to the 3 stand pipes and to the center brush where the water and detergent are sprayed on the inside and outside surfaces of the glass.

Only .2 of a cc of detergent is delivered per glass at the time the water enters the pump. If the glass were held down in the washing position for a long time, only cold water would flow to the glass and act as a rinse. When the glass is removed, water pressure is reduced to atmospheric pressure in the pump. The spring loaded diaphragm assembly returns to the original position ready for the next cycle. During the time that the detergent and water are being delivered to the glass surface, the 3 outside brushes and the inside brush are scrubbing the glass.

After about 3 seconds time the glass is withdrawn from the machine. This stops the flow of water to the pump, but the small controlled leak directly to the brushes continues to flow.

The machine operates on 110 volts AC and is equipped with a 3 prong grounding plug. The motor and case are grounded through the round pin in the plug.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The data submitted was examined by Assistant Engineer George F. Sklenarik. The Model 300A is very similar in construction and operation to the Model 300 glass washer previously approved under Calendar Number 236-57-SA. The detergent used has been approved by the Department of Health.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as Kidde Cold Water Glass Washer and Sanitizer Model 300A for voluntary use in New York City on condition that all installations comply with the Submerged Inlet Rules of the Board and that an approved vacuum breaker and check valve be installed in accordance with such rules and the discharge shall be to an open sink and further that the appliance bear a label, permanently affixed, reading, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 1689-61-SA".

USE: Ductile iron pipe fittings for use in stand pipes.

DESCRIPTION: The ductile iron screwed pipe fittings consists of elbows, street elbows, tees, bell reducers and pipe caps. Each fitting consists of a body with outlets. The outlets are threaded and are provided with reinforced bands on the exterior surface to strengthen the fitting at the threaded portion.

The threads are American Standard pipe threads and are chamfered a distance of not less than one half the pitch of the thread and at an angle of 45° with the axis of the thread. The ductile iron used in the manufacture of the fittings is produced by the introduction of a small amount of manganese alloy into the ladle filled with molten cast iron. This manganese changes the graphite structure of the iron from a flake to a spheroidal form.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Samples of the fitting were tested at the Underwriters Laboratories and as a result of these tests the fittings have been approved by the Underwriters Laboratories for use in stand pipe lines under File No. EX 1959 62K518.

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

1122-62-SA—Reuben Lisson for Old Dominion Iron and Steel Corporation, Richmond, Virginia, filed for approval of the appliance known as ODIS Double Tube Fuel Oil Heater Models 3.5, 5, 6, 8, 10 and 12 under the provisions of the Oil Burner Rules of the Board.

USE: A preheater for heavy fuel oil.

DESCRIPTION: The ODIS Double Tube Oil Heater consists of a shell of either welded or seamless steel pipe into which are fitted a number of double tube oil heating elements. Each element consists of a steel steam conveyor tube positioned concentrically within a larger oil heating tube also of steel. The steam conveyor tubes are open at both ends with one end roller expanded into a steel tube sheet which is fitted to a cast iron or welded steel chamber.

MINUTES

This chamber acts as a steam chest and condensate well. The outer oil heating tubes are likewise roller expanded at one end into a separate steel tube sheet. At the other end of the heater the free ends of the oil heating tubes which extend beyond the steam conveyor tubes are closed forming a return passage for the steam.

These heaters are designed for a working pressure of 300 p.s.i. and are tested hydrostatically to 450 p.s.i.

In operation the fuel oil enters the heater shell at the chamber end and under the pressure of the oil transfer pump, the oil is directed across the outside surface of the outer tubes passing between a series of vertical directional baffles. The temperature of the oil is thus raised to a predetermined level leaving the heater through a connection at the other end of the heater shell. The thermostatic element of a temperature regulating device is placed in the oil piping adjacent to the heater exit connection.

This regulator controls the flow of steam to the heater to prevent excess oil temperature.

The heater shell is provided with a connection to receive an oil pressure relief valve.

Steam enters the chamber and passes through the inner conveyor tubes and returns through the annular space between tubes along with the condensate formed by heating the oil. The condensate drains off to a steam trap which discharges to waste. The trap is provided with a three valve by-pass to provide manual control of the condensate in the event of trap failure.

The steam supply line to the heater is fitted with a main steam shut off valve, a thermostatically controlled temperature regulator for the oil and with a three-valve by-pass arrangement to permit manual control of the steam flow to the heater in the event of mechanical trouble with the regulator. A steam pressure gauge is installed in the supply line.

A check valve is also provided in the steam supply line to close against any back flow to the boiler.

These heaters are built to A.S.M.E. code specifications.

10	10 ³ / ₄ "	4'3" up to 11'3"

INSPECTION AND TEST: All data was examined by Assistant Engineer George F. Sklenarik. These heaters are built to A.S.M.E. code specifications.

New matter in italics.

Old matter to be deleted in brackets [].

Application of Rules

These rules shall be deemed to apply only to coin-operated dry cleaning establishments pursuant to Article III, Chapter 2, Section 32-15 A and Section 32-25 D of the Zoning Resolution effective December 15, 1961.

These rules shall not be deemed to modify or repeal Chapter 19 of the Administrative Code of the City of New York or the Rules Governing Dry Cleaning Establishments adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals under Calendar Number 958-47-SR—Vol. II for installations prior to December 15, 1961 and Calendar Number 432-62-SR.

Rule 2. Approvals

2.1 It shall be unlawful to use any premises for any coin-operated dry cleaning establishment without filing plans of that portion of the premises to be so used with the Department of Buildings or the Department of Marine and Aviation and obtain its approval.

2.6 All coin-operated dry cleaning units shall be installed in a diked area all parts of which shall be impervious to the solvent used in such units. The diked section shall consist of a four inch curb above the floor. All solvent spillage into the diked area shall be conducted by gravity flow, or by an automatic pump, where cellar space is not available into a tank which shall be equipped with a leakproof pump and [enclosed] closed piping system, to pump the solvent back to the dry cleaning units. Such tanks [system] shall be [installed pursuant to the Rules] constructed of not less than 14 U. S. Gauge Steel, or where the tank capacity is 275 gallons or larger, tanks shall be constructed in accordance with the Oil Burner Rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals. The said tank or tanks shall be of sufficient capacity to accept all solvent contained in the largest tank or interconnected group of tanks in the dry cleaning unit or units which it services.

Rule 3. Restrictions on [Locations and] Area[s]

3.1.1 In calculating the gross floor area pursuant to Rule 3.1, the area restriction shall not include the area used by lawful non-dry cleaning operations of a multiple use type of service establishment, nor shall this section apply to any premises where use group 16 is permitted by the Zoning Resolution.

3.2.1. which is of wood frame construction;

3.2.2. which is classified as a public building pursuant to Section C26-235.0 of the Administrative Building Code;

3.2.3. where any part of such establishment is within 20 feet of any public building.]

Rule 5. Fire Prevention

5.5 Inflammable liquids and solvents shall not be used for spotting and sponging. Spotting and sponging may be done with water, which may contain soap or non-combustible detergents.

5.10 All coin-operated retail dry cleaning establishments shall be provided with at least two portable dry chemical fire extinguishers of not less than five pounds capacity each. The Fire Department shall have jurisdiction over the location and type of these fire extinguishers and shall make periodic inspections to insure that the fire extinguishers are in proper working order, and that proper housekeeping conditions are maintained on the premises and that the solvent used shall be of the type for which the unit was approved by the Board.

Rule 6. Ventilation

6.1.1 Any open flame drying equipment shall be located at least [25'-0"] 15'-0" from any dry cleaning unit unless placed in an enclosed area, or (a) a vapor tight partition, which may contain glass, equipped with self-closing doors, is provided between the dry cleaning unit and the dryer. This partition may provide either complete or partial separation, provided that any partial separation is so arranged, that the line of air travel around the partition from the dry cleaners to the dryers is a minimum of 15'-0" or (b) a solid incombustible vapor tight partition is constructed extending from the top of the dryers to the ceiling above and all other portions of the dryer enclosure are solid and equipped with a self-closing access door so that vapors from the cleaning units cannot reach the dryer flame, provided that adequate fresh air for combustion and drying is supplied to the dryers from the outer air; in which event the separation between dryers and dry cleaners may be reduced to a minimum of 15'-0".

6.1.2 Suspended oil or gas fired heating units, approved by the Board may be installed provided that they are located at least 7'-0" above the floor and at least 5'-0", measured horizontally, from any dry cleaning equipment.

6.2 Coin-operated dry cleaning establishments shall be equipped with adequate ventilation to provide at least four (4) complete changes of air volume an hour. The minimum ventilation specified here shall be maintained at all times when the coin-operated dry cleaning establishment is open. This ventilation system, which includes the scavenger ducts required under Rule 6.7, shall be arranged to draw air from the public area into the service area and exhaust it from the service area to the outer air.

6.4 [Additional general] Emergency ventilation of the service area back of coin-operated dry cleaning units shall be provided so that in emergencies a minimum of one air change per minute of the enclosed service area will be provided.

such unit. All exhaust facilities shall be sealed and air tight and constructed in such manner so that all solvent vapors shall be discharged mechanically to the open air in the manner specified in subsection 1 through 4 of Rule 6.8 hereof. All exhaust facilities, other than the emergency ventilation required by Rule 6.4, shall be operated continually while the premises are open to the public. Provisions must be made by air intakes to replace air exhausted from the establishments to the outside.

6.7 A scavenger duct shall be provided in the service area at each unit and shall be designed to pick up vapors surrounding the equipment near the floor. The suction inlet for these scavenger ducts shall be located not less than two or more than six inches above the floor and shall exhaust 300 [linear] cubic feet of air per minute.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Public Hearing will be held by the Board of Standards and Appeals on Friday morning April 19, 1963, at 10 A. M. in Room 909, 80 Lafayette Street, Borough of Manhattan, on the Proposed Amendments to the Rules Covering Coin-Operated Dry Cleaning Establishments.

New matter in italics.
Old matter to be deleted in brackets [].

Application of Rules

These rules shall be deemed to apply only to coin-operated dry cleaning establishments pursuant to Article III, Chapter 2, Section 32-15 A and Section 32-25 D of the Zoning Resolution effective December 15, 1961.

These rules shall not be deemed to modify or repeal Chapter 19 of the Administrative Code of the City of New York or the Rules Governing Dry Cleaning Establishments adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals under Calendar Number 958-47-SR—Vol. II for installations prior to December 15, 1961 and Calendar Number 432-62-SR.

Rule 2. Approvals

2.1 It shall be unlawful to use any premises for any coin-operated dry cleaning establishment without filing plans of that portion of the premises to be so used with the Department of Buildings or the Department of Marine and Aviation and obtain its approval.

2.6 All coin-operated dry cleaning units shall be installed in a diked area all parts of which shall be impervious to the solvent used in such units. The diked section shall consist of a four inch curb above the floor. All solvent spillage into the diked area shall be conducted by gravity flow, or by an automatic pump, where cellar space is not available into a tank which shall be equipped with a leakproof pump and [enclosed] closed piping system, to pump the solvent back to the dry cleaning units. Such tanks [system] shall be [installed pursuant to the Rules] constructed of not less than 14 U. S. Gauge Steel, or where the tank capacity is 275 gallons or larger, tanks shall be constructed in accordance with the Oil Burner Rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals. The said tank or tanks shall be of sufficient capacity to accept all solvent contained in the largest tank or interconnected group of tanks in the dry cleaning unit or units which it services.

Rule 3. Restrictions on [Locations and] Area[s]

3.1.1 In calculating the gross floor area pursuant to Rule 3.1, the area restriction shall not include the area used by lawful non-dry cleaning operations of a multiple use type of service establishment, nor shall this section apply to any premises where use group 16 is permitted by the Zoning Resolution.

[3.2] [No coin-operated dry cleaning establishment shall be permitted within any building:

3.2.1. which is of wood frame construction;

3.2.2. which is classified as a public building pursuant to Section C26-235.0 of the Administrative Building Code;

3.2.3. where any part of such establishment is within 20 feet of any public building.]

Rule 5. Fire Prevention

5.5 Inflammable liquids and solvents shall not be used for spotting and sponging. Spotting and sponging may be done with water, which may contain soap or non-combustible detergents.

5.7 All solvent used in the dry cleaning unit shall be either (a) received and stored in metal containers not exceeding 55 gallons each and pumped directly into a dry cleaning unit or units by means of a detachable leakproof pump and pipe system, or (b) received and stored in a tank or tanks [installed] constructed in accordance with the Oil Burner Rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals [relating to the receiving and storing of light fuel oils] and pumped directly into a dry cleaning unit or units by means of a closed leakproof pipe and pump system.

5.10 All coin-operated retail dry cleaning establishments shall be provided with at least two portable dry chemical fire extinguishers of not less than five pounds capacity each. The Fire Department shall have jurisdiction over the location and type of these fire extinguishers and shall make periodic inspections to insure that the fire extinguishers are in proper working order, and that proper housekeeping conditions are maintained on the premises and that the solvent used shall be of the type for which the unit was approved by the Board.

Rule 6. Ventilation

6.1.1 Any open flame drying equipment shall be located at least [25'-0"] 15'-0" from any dry cleaning unit unless placed in an enclosed area, or (a) a vapor tight partition, which may contain glass, equipped with self-closing doors, is provided between the dry cleaning unit and the dryer. This partition may provide either complete or partial separation, provided that any partial separation is so arranged, that the line of air travel around the partition from the dry cleaners to the dryers is a minimum of 15'-0" or (b) a solid incombustible vapor tight partition is constructed extending from the top of the dryers to the ceiling above and all other portions of the dryer enclosure are solid and equipped with a self-closing access door so that vapors from the cleaning units cannot reach the dryer flame, provided that adequate fresh air for combustion and drying is supplied to the dryers from the outer air; in which event the separation between dryers and dry cleaners may be reduced to a minimum of 15'-0".

6.1.2 Suspended oil or gas fired heating units, approved by the Board may be installed provided that they are located at least 7'-0" above the floor and at least 5'-0", measured horizontally, from any dry cleaning equipment.

6.2 Coin-operated dry cleaning establishments shall be equipped with adequate ventilation to provide at least four (4) complete changes of air volume an hour. The minimum ventilation specified here shall be maintained at all times when the coin-operated dry cleaning establishment is open. This ventilation system, which includes the scavenger ducts required under Rule 6.7, shall be arranged to draw air from the public area into the service area and exhaust it from the service area to the outer air.

6.4 [Additional general] Emergency ventilation of the service area back of coin-operated dry cleaning units shall be provided so that in emergencies a minimum of one air change per minute of the enclosed service area will be provided.

6.6 In [addition to] meeting all [other] ventilation requirements provided for in these Rules, the following shall apply:

- (a) A power exhaust system shall be provided for the removal of toxic vapors consisting of: at least one individual exhaust on each dry cleaning unit; scavenger ducts located at each unit; power exhaust fans for the space behind such unit; and air intakes located [on] at the front [grill] of each such unit. All exhaust facilities shall be sealed and air tight and constructed in such manner so that all solvent vapors shall be discharged mechanically to the open air in the manner specified in subsection 1 through 4 of Rule 6.8 hereof. All exhaust facilities, other than the emergency ventilation required by Rule 6.4, shall be operated continually while the premises are open to the public. Provisions must be made by air intakes to replace air exhausted from the establishments to the outside.

6.7 A scavenger duct shall be provided in the service area at each unit and shall be designed to pick up vapors surrounding the equipment near the floor. The suction inlet for these scavenger ducts shall be located not less than two or more than six inches above the floor and shall exhaust 300 [linear] cubic feet of air per minute.

Rule 7. Operating Precautions

7.10 [Spotting or sponging with inflammable liquid solvent shall not be permitted in coin-operated dry cleaning establishments except as provided in Rule 5.5 and 5.9.] A weighing device shall be located on premises to assure that the rated dry load capacity of coin-operated dry cleaning machine shall not be exceeded.

COURT DECISION.

Matter of Mazur vs. Foley:—On July 10, 1962, the Board, granted a variance under Sections 9A and 21 of the Zoning Resolution, to permit in a residence use, Class 1 height district, the erection of a six-story and basement multiple dwelling, exceeding the permitted height within two miles of a designated airport; Calendar Number 1760-61-BZ; Premises 23-11 Cornaga Avenue, southeast corner of Nasby Place, Block 15753, Lot 72, Far Rockaway, Borough of Queens.

At Supreme Court, Special Term, Part I, Mr. Justice Fitzpatrick rendered the following decision:

"In a certiorari proceeding, petitioners have moved (1) to punish respondents for contempt for their failure to file a return; (2) to cancel the building permit issued pursuant to a variance granted by the respondents, and (3) to restrain the intervenor from commencing construction of a building. Since respondents have now filed their return, the first branch of the motion has been withdrawn. Inasmuch as the petitioners had not obtained a stay, the building permit was properly issued, and, accordingly, the second branch of the motion is denied. A stay of construction will be granted, however, upon petitioners posting a bond in the sum of $25,000 (Civ. Prac. Act, sec. 1299). Settle order." (N. Y. Law Journal, April 5, 1963, page 17).

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

171-59-SM—Amendment to resolution as to added design.

KSM Products Inc., Moorestown, New Jersey, requested that the resolution adopted November 10, 1959, under Calendar Number 171-59-SM be reopened and amended so as to include additional design.

USE: Stud is a shear connector for composite steel and stone concrete floor and/or roof construction.

DESCRIPTION: The material, a non corroding fluxed shear connector is a round steel bar, at least 2 inches long, made from cold finish carbon steel conforming to A.S.T.M. A-108. It is stud welded with a complete penetration butt weld at one end to the wide flange beam. The other end is an upset head whose diameter is either $1\frac{3}{4}$ times the diameter of the bar or $\frac{1}{2}$ inch greater than the diameter of the bar, or a bent horizontal leg at least $1\frac{11}{16}$ inches long. The head or bent horizontal portion of the "L" pin prevents relative movement of the slab in a vertical direction.

The connector is fastened to the steel structures by a stud welding gun which utilizes a DC electric arc welding process.

When installed, the system consists of a structural steel beam, a reinforced concrete slab and the shear connector welded to the beam and solidly embedded into the concrete slab, thereby combining these three elements into one structural unit. This structural unit is designed using the conventional transformed section theory of reinforced concrete design. This involves an investigation of the maximum flexural and shearing stresses in the beam. In a steel beam which is a homogeneous section, the neutral axis passes through the center of gravity of the beam.

For the design and analysis of a composite beam, the concrete slab is transformed into an equivalent steel area and therefore the composite beam is made similar to a homogeneous steel beam.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The applicant has submitted reports of tests titled Tests of Composite Beams for Buildings. These tests were conducted by Lehigh University Institute of Research, Fritz Laboratory Reports Numbers 354.1, April 1959; 279.2, June 1960; 279.6 January 1961 and 279.10, January 1962. These reports recommend design loads and spacing of the shear connectors of various sizes. On the basis of these tests the American Institute of Steel Construction Specification for the Design Fabrication and Erection of Structural Steel for Buildings made modifications in their design formula as follows:

1. The entire horizontal shear at the junction of the steel beam and the concrete slab shall be assumed to be transferred by shear connectors welded to the top flange of the beam and imbedded in the concrete. The total horizontal shear to be thus resisted between the point of maximum positive moment and each end of the steel beam or between the point of maximum moment and a point of contraflexure in continuous beams may be taken as the smaller value using the following formula:

$$V_h = \frac{0.85 f_c A_c}{2} \quad (\text{Formula 18})$$

$$V_h = \frac{A_s F_y}{2} \quad (\text{Formula 19})$$

Both formulas are from the specifications as herein mentioned.

f_c = specified compressive strength of concrete at 28 days.
 A_c = actual area of effective concrete flange defined below.

A_s = Area of steel beam.

f_y = yield strength of steel.

The number of stud connectors resisting this shear, each side of the point of maximum moment, shall not be less than that determined by the relationship $\frac{V_h}{q}$, where q , the allowable shear load for one connector as shown in the following table:

STUD	SHEAR LOAD (q) in KIPS
	$f_c = 3000$	$f_c = 3500$	$f_c = 4000$
$\frac{1}{2}$ " diam. x 2" min. length	5.1	5.5	5.9
$\frac{5}{8}$ " diam. x $2\frac{1}{2}$ " min. length	8.0	8.6	9.2
$\frac{3}{4}$ " diam. x 3" min. length	11.5	12.5	13.3
$\frac{7}{8}$ " diam. x $3\frac{1}{2}$ " min. length	15.6	16.8	18.0

The effective width of the concrete flange as required as A_c is defined as follows:

When the slab extends on both sides of the beam, the effective width of the concrete flange shall be taken as not more than $\frac{1}{4}$ of the span of the beam, and its effective projection beyond the edge of the beam shall not be taken as more than $\frac{1}{2}$ the clear distance to the adjacent beam nor more than 8 times the slab thickness. When the slab is present on only one side of the beam, the effective width of the concrete flange (projection beyond the beam) shall be taken at not more than $\frac{1}{2}$ of the beam span, nor 6 times its thickness nor $\frac{1}{2}$ the clear distance to the adjacent beam.

RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the data filed by the applicant, the Committee on Test recommends that the resolution adopted November 10, 1959, under Calendar Number 171-59-SM be reopened and amended so as to permit the use of the K.S.M. Shear Connector Studs under the following conditions:

1. That the formula used in computing the number of shear connectors shall be the formula as herein set forth.

2. The composite section shall be proportioned to support all loads without exceeding the allowable stresses as prescribed under C26-368.0 as amended by Local Law 69 of 1961. The moment of inertia of the composite section shall be computed in accordance with the elastic theory. Concrete tension stresses below the neutral axis of the composite section are to be neglected. The compression area of the concrete above the neutral axis shall be treated as an equivalent area of steel by dividing it by the ratio "n".

3. All stone concrete work shall comply with the requirements of Article 19, Chapter 26, Administrative Building Code, as set forth under Local Law 74 of 1962.

4. That all other pertinent requirements of the resolution adopted November 10, 1959, under Calendar Number 171-59-SM be complied with.

353-59-SA—Hammond Laundry Machinery Company, owner, Waco, Texas, filed for approval of the appliance known as Hammond Laundry Washer-Extractor Models WEL-25 and WEL-40 under the provisions of the Submerged Inlet Rules of the Board.

USE: A washing machine having capacities of 25 lbs. and 40 lbs.

DESCRIPTION: The two machines are basically the same design, the difference being in their dry load capacity which in turn governs the size of the motor. The motor for the Model 25 being 1½ H.P. and for the Model 40 a 2 H.P. motor. The balance of the construction is similar to the standard type of clothes washing machine.

The loading door of the equipment is so designed that the door must be closed before the washer can start.

The water enters the machine through a 5/8" copper tube, a 5/8" x 3/4" brass compression fitting and a 3/4" galvanized cross. There is a 1/8" air gap in the cross and the tubing is so inserted that this air gap is maintained.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Details of construction were examined by Assistant Architect T. W. Farricker, and it was noted that the appliance is equipped with a 1/8" air gap.

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

622-62-SM—Armstrong Cork Co., Incorporated, Lancaster, Pa., filed for approval of the material known as Armstrong Siding 8", 10", 12" by 1/2" Horizontal and 4'-0" x 8'-0" or 4'-0" x 9'-0" x 1/2" Vertical under the provisions of C26-538.0 Administrative Building Code.

USE: Exterior siding used as sheathing.

DESCRIPTION: The siding is made from southern hardwoods and the process includes the production of fibers from these woods by the ground wood process. The resultant fibers are screened and refined to eliminate coarse fractions. The fibers are then mixed with water to form a slurry. To this slurry is added thermoplastic resins and sizing agents. This material is then felted on a standard cylinder machine used in the manufacture of insulating board. The wet sheet is then cold pressed to remove as much water as possible. The remaining water is then removed in a convection dryer.

The dried sheets are then coated on each side after which they are consolidated in a multiple plattern press where the resins and sizing agents are fused with the fibers to produce the finished board.

The large pressed sheets are cut into 8", 10" or 12" widths and 16'-10" long or into 4'-0" x 8'-0" or 4'-0" x 9'-0" sheets either plain or "V" grooved on 8" centers.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Samples of the material were tested at the Armstrong Cork Co., Research and Development Center under the supervision of Prof. F. A. Jay of Pennsylvania State University. The material was tested in accordance with the A.S.T.M. requirements for Fiber Board and also for racking as required by the Board. The material successfully met the Board's requirement of 6000 lb. thrust where the studs were spaced 24" on centers for vertical installation. The complete report is on file with and is part of the record.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the material known as Armstrong 4'-0" x 8'-0" or 4'-0" x 9'-0" x 1/2" Vertical Siding for use in New York City as a sheathing material under the provisions of C26-538.0.b on condition that the frame work shall comply with the requirements of C26-538.0.a Administrative Building Code, and further that the board shall be marked or labeled, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 622-62-SM".

USE: Pressure sterilizers for hospital use.

DESCRIPTION: The D Models are a recessed straight-line system whereas the F Models are console recessed.

The sterilizers are designed to provide a completely automatic cycle.

The body is a double shell body consisting of an inner shell, outer shell, and monel headring. The inner and outer shells are made from single sheets of flange quality steel or monel metal and form the chamber and jackets of the sterilizer. Whenever steel is used, the inner surface of the sterilizing chamber is nickel clad.

The door is equipped with a dual safety lock. On the smaller size this mechanism consists of an inner lock actuated by internal pressure and an external lock which prevents disengagement of the locking arms. The door cannot be opened until the pressure has been released. On the larger size the dual lock safety feature consists of a set of cam operated and spring controlled hooks mounted on four shafts. The hooks engage on diagonal door pads which prevents disengagement of the hooks until all steam pressure is released. An electrically controlled interlocking system and a bellows operated pressure lock prevents opening of the door while the cycle is in progress.

The appliance is equipped with control valves, safety valves and pressure regulating valves.

The appliance is also equipped with a steam strainer which removes, from the steam, any particles which may clog the valving or other components.

The waste line has an open funnel which serves as an air break which prevents waste water from being drawn back to the system.

The equipment is provided with a vacuum breaker and check valve to prevent siphoning of water from the condenser coils into the water supply of the unit.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Details of construction were examined by Assistant Engineer John A. Darts, and it was noted that the appliance is equipped with a vacuum breaker and check valve.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as OrthoVac Models D-20202, F-26302, F-26362, F-26482 and F-26602 for use in New York City when installed in accordance with the Submerged Inlet Rules of the Board, with an approved vacuum breaker and check valve and further that the appliance bear a label, permanently affixed, reading, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 28-63-SA".

Rule 3. Ventilation.

- 3.1 Spraying or dipping spaces shall be ventilated when in operation so that the movement of air shall be at least one hundred (100') linear feet per minute in the breathing zone of the operator and be of sufficient capacity to prevent the accumulation of mist or vapors. For requirements of ventilation of storage rooms see Rule 4.4.1.

Where additional fire fighting equipment is necessary such equipment shall be furnished in accordance with the direction of the Fire Commissioner. Floor drains leading to the house draining system or the public sewer shall not be permitted. Dip tanks shall be provided with hinged metal covers held open by a fusible link, such covers to be equipped with an opening to permit automatic flooding of the tank with fire extinguishing media of a type and so located as the Fire Commissioner shall direct. Where the work process, such as conveyorized operation, makes the use of a cover impractical, the dip tank and drain boards shall be protected by an adequate extinguishing system designed for manual and automatic operation satisfactory to the Fire Commissioner and such conveyor shall be interlocked with the extinguishing system so that in the event the extinguishing system is activated, the conveyor action shall be stopped.

4.1.2 Panels of polished wired glass or plate-glass at least one-quarter ($\frac{1}{4}$) of an inch thick, not exceeding seven hundred and twenty (720) square inches in area and not more than forty-eight (48") inches in any linear dimension may be used in the sides of a spray booth or room.

ovens shall be constructed of metal and incombustible materials so designed as to preclude the direct application of flame to the materials in process. Ventilation shall be provided for each oven of sufficient capacity to maintain an oven vapor concentration at all times during the drying process of less than $\frac{1}{4}$ the low explosive limit of the solvent used. All oven openings shall be maintained at a negative pressure relative to room pressure for inward flow. The controls for the safety exhaust and recirculating fans shall be properly interlocked with the gas supply line so that when the gas is flowing the fans are in operation. A time delay relay shall be installed to provide a minimum of four oven volume changes with fresh air and in the case of an indirect fired type of oven simultaneous purging of the combustion chamber before the ignition system can be energized and gas flow started. Each oven shall be equipped with gas burning equipment approved for such use and with electrical controls so arranged as to shut off the gas valve when ignition fails or the gas supply pressure drops to 2 inches of water.

The use of a continuous gas pilot light is prohibited unless an automatic gas shut off valve is provided which will shut the gas off at the pilot light when the flame is extinguished or the supply of gas cut off. Electrical pilot ignition shall be of the continuous type or equal in performance, designed for use in high temperatures, with controls so interlocked as to shut off the gas supply when current is interrupted. An auxiliary manually operated gas shut off valve shall be located not nearer than 25 feet from the oven so as to control the gas supply in the event of an emergency. Such ovens shall be adequately insulated on all sides and top to limit the maximum surface temperature to 140°F and to 160°F on the base, unless the floor is protected by a 3 inch mat of reinforced concrete placed over and bonded into the existing concrete floor and projecting not less than 6 inches outside the projected area of the equipment or unless an unenclosed clear air space not less than 4 inches above the concrete floor is maintained between the floor and the underside of the oven.

4.3.1.1 The burner section of gas fired drying ovens shall not be located nearer than 25 feet from spraying or dipping spaces except when separated by fire proof construction, in which case the distance between burner section and spray or dip space shall be not less than 25 feet measured in the shortest line of travel.

4.3.2 ELECTRIC INFRA-RED RAY DRYING OVENS.

4.3.2.1 Electric Infra Red Ray Drying Ovens shall be of a type as approved by the Board. Such ovens shall be constructed of electric equipment installed in accordance with the National Electric Code and the requirements of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity. Ovens when erected shall be placed on concrete floors without any additional protection, provided that at least 12 inches of clear space above the floor is provided to permit adequate ventilation.

4.3.2.1.1 In drying processed material involving the evaporation of considerable amounts of flammable solvents by infra-red lamps, such installations shall not be confined in small rooms unless such rooms are thoroughly ventilated by a power driven ventilation system of sufficient capacity to maintain a vapor concentration at all times during the drying process of less than $\frac{1}{4}$ the low explosive limit of the solvent used; the controls of the ventilation system to be so interlocked with the Infra-Red Ray System that the latter cannot function unless the ventilating system is in operation. When equipped with duct ventilating system, the Infra-Red Ray Oven shall be adequately secured so as to prevent moving.

4.3.2.1.2 Where the evaporation of a considerable amount of flammable vapors are involved, ventilated hoods located as near to the floor as practicable or enclosures shall be provided at the initial stage of the process with adequate exhaust system to discharge the primary evaporation from the solvents to the outer air, so that when the processed material progresses through the lamp drying tunnels only a comparatively small amount of solvent is left for evaporation. A space between such ventilating section and the drying section shall be maintained.

4.3.2.1.3 Lamps and other electrical equipment shall be kept free from flammable deposits and adequate cleaning shall be maintained.

4.3.2.1.4 Lamp and resistance heater type drying units shall be separated from spraying and dipping processes complying with these rules by a distance of at least 15 feet or shall be installed in a separate fireproof room.

4.3.2.1.5 Controls shall be arranged so that the lamps in the tunnels will be shut off automatically if and when the conveyor stops.

4.3.2.1.6 Where there are no conveyors and the material being processed is left stationary in the dryer there shall be an excessive temperature switch to shut off the lamps or resistance heaters to avoid overheating the material being processed if it is not removed from the dryer in time.

4.3.2.1.7 Material to be processed on the conveyors shall be rigidly supported so as not to be liable to displacement and cause lamp breakage and short circuits. Where there are no conveyors, materials should be fixed on dollies running on tracks or other equivalent method to accomplish the same result.

4.3.3 The temperature of the air contacting the processed material or of the material itself shall not be higher than that to which such material can be safely subjected.

4.3.4 Such fire fighting equipment suitable for electrical and solvent vapor fires shall be provided as the Fire Commissioner may direct.

The outer pipe shall be not less than two (2") inches from any woodwork and such woodwork shall be covered with at least 26 gauge metal or other incombustible material.

4.4.5 Ventilating ducts shall not terminate within ten (10) feet measured horizontally of any chimney outlet, unprotected air intakes or within twenty (20) feet of any exit or any opening in an adjoining building.

4.4.6 If induced draft is used to create an air movement, the air shall be supplied from a point outside the spray or dip or immersing space. Fans and motor must be located outside the spray, or dip space, except approved explosion-proof motor and non-ferrous blade fans which, however, are not to be located where residues of spraying material may collect on such equipment.

4.4.7 The exhaust system from any spray, dip or immersing space shall not be connected to any other ventilating system or be discharged into a chimney or flue used for the purpose of conveying gases of combustion.

4.4.8 Exhaust fan blades shall be constructed of non-ferrous metal. All exhaust and ventilating fans to be permanently connected to their source of power, using metallic conduit. Rheostats in fan bases not permitted. Fan blades not coming in direct contact, with spraying fumes, need not comply with this requirement.

(593-23-SR)

DEFINITION OF "FIRE DRILL"

The method and practice of the systematic and orderly vacating of a building by its occupants in case of emergency, panic or fire in the least possible time—by the nearest safe means of exit—and the use of fire appliances which shall be provided for the extinguishing or retarding of fire and the safeguarding of human life.

Rule 1.

In all buildings as defined in Article 1, Section 10 of the Labor Law in which fire drills are required pursuant to Section 279 thereof and in any other building in which such drills are required by the Fire Commissioner pursuant to the power conferred in section 491 of the New York City Charter, it shall be the duty of the owners, lessees or tenants to conduct fire drills monthly and at such other times as the Fire Commissioner may direct.

For the purpose of conducting such fire drills the owner or tenants shall appoint from among their employees such responsible and dependable persons, male or female, who shall efficiently perform the duties of the various positions of the fire drill organization, as specified on the accompanying chart.

It shall be the duty of the owner or tenant to enter in the blank spaces provided for that purpose in said chart the names of persons so selected and post said chart and copies of the rules in a conspicuous place.

He shall be familiar with the operation and location of the interior alarm signal box on his floor.

He shall listen for the test signal each morning at the appointed hour and in the event of the test signal not being heard he shall communicate with the superintendent or other person in charge of the building and advise him of the fact. The (Floor Captain's) Foreman's orders are final as to the carrying out of the fire drill on his particular floor.

Rule 3. Duties of Watchmen.

The WATCHMEN shall see that all doors and windows are closed so as to prevent the spread of fire. The WATCHMEN shall be the only persons permitted to remain on the floor during the progress of a fire drill and do so at their own risk. For ordinary purposes only one watchman and a substitute shall be designated. In special cases, however, extra watchmen may be assigned by consent in writing from Fire Commissioner.

Rule 4. Duties of Searchers.

The MALE AND FEMALE SEARCHERS shall search all toilets, dressing rooms and emergency rooms used and frequented by their sex and all other portions of the floor and order all persons, except those authorized to remain, to leave the premises. They are to take care of and assist all persons who may faint or be disabled.

SEARCHERS shall leave the floor immediately after the last squad leaves.

Rule 5. Duties of Street Alarm Box Runner.

The STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall be familiar with the location of the nearest city fire alarm box and know how it is operated.

In ordinary practice fire drills the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall report to the Foreman for orders, and if his services are not required he shall promptly file out of the premises with the other occupants.

Only when a fire actually occurs on his floor, or when ordered to do so by the Foreman, shall the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER proceed to the street alarm box and send in the fire alarm.

Rule 6. Duties of Fire Brigade.

The fire brigade shall have full charge of the operation of all auxiliary fire fighting apparatus and shall endeavor to extinguish, or at least hold in check until the arrival of the Fire Department, any fire that may occur. When it is necessary for the fire brigade to respond to different floors in the building they shall not use the stairways or fire escapes while the occupants are escaping from the premises.

Rule 7. Duties of Exit Guards.

The EXIT GUARDS shall station themselves at all exit doors leading to fire escapes, stairways, and other means of escape immediately upon the sounding of the alarm. There shall be two guards for each exit, if practicable; one to stand in the hallway holding back the door and the other directly inside on the floor. They are to keep the exit doors open and direct the movements of the persons using these exits and prevent congestion.

EXIT GUARDS shall remain at their stations until all of the occupants of the building have passed their station. Then close their doors and pass out of the building. Upon signal for the occupants to return, EXIT GUARDS shall take their designated stations and remain there until all persons have returned to their respective floors.

Rule 8. Duties of Squad Monitors.

The SQUAD MONITORS, as soon as the alarm is sounded, shall see that the employees under their charge quickly form into line, two abreast, and numbering not more than thirty to each squad. They shall see that all aisles and passageways are cleared of obstructions.

Note: Chairs, stools, baskets, etc., should be pushed under or placed on top of work benches.

MONITORS shall proceed at the head of their respective squads to the exit assigned, and then march up or down the stairs or to other exits as directed by the EXIT GUARDS.

RULES

MONITORS will at all times see that those under their charge conduct themselves in a respectable and orderly manner.

Rule 9. Holding of Drills.

FIRE DRILLS shall be held at least once each month at varied hours of the day, and all of the occupants shall participate therein simultaneously. Such drills shall conduct all occupants to a place of safety.

Where dual operation interior fire alarm systems are installed as permitted under Rule 10.1 of the interior fire alarm rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals, the fire drill conducted each month shall include all of the persons on the premises engaged at work for a factory, and drills shall be conducted at least twice, each year in which all of the persons on the premises shall participate simultaneously.

Rule 10. Duties of Owner.

It shall be the duty of the OWNER, LESSEE OR TENANT OF THE BUILDING or his authorized agent or their representatives to personally observe that the "Fire Drill" is held simultaneously on every floor of the building and the participation therein of every occupant of such building. Any FIRE DRILL in which all of the occupants do not participate shall not be considered as complying with the LAW, except as otherwise provided in these rules.

The person or persons representing the OWNERS, LESSEE OR TENANT, who supervises the FIRE DRILL at the building shall submit to an examination by the Division of Fire Prevention as to their experience and general fitness for such duties, and shall be so certified in writing by the FIRE COMMISSIONER.

Rule 11. Duties of Engineer.

Whenever it is necessary to test the fire alarm system at any other time of the day, owing to repairs, etc., being made, the PERSON IN CHARGE OF BUILDING will first notify all Foremen of the several floors of the intended test and likewise notify them when the repairs, etc. are completed. This precaution is taken to prevent confusion and excitement, also misunderstanding of the alarm signals.

It shall also be the duty of the PERSON IN CHARGE OF BUILDING to sound the interior alarm system at irregular intervals, but not less than once each calendar month, for the purpose of holding practice fire drills. He shall keep on the premises a record of such drills, showing the date when held and the required time for all occupants to reach the street or a point of safety outside the building.

The PERSON IN CHARGE OF BUILDING must immediately acquaint new tenants of the existence of the "Fire Drill" Organization and its purport.

Rule 12. Registration.

The name and address of every person, corporation or co-partnership, that will, under professional service, carry on the trade, business or calling of establishing, maintaining or supervising the "Fire Drill" shall be registered in the Fire Department, which Department shall, upon evidence of fitness, grant a certificate to that effect.

COURT DECISION.

Matter of Mazur vs. Foley:—On July 10, 1962, the Board, granted a variance under Sections 9A and 21 of the Zoning Resolution, to permit in a residence use, Class 1 height district, the erection of a six-story and basement multiple dwelling, exceeding the permitted height within two miles of a designated airport; Calendar Number 1760-61-BZ; Premises 23-11 Cornaga Avenue, southeast corner of Nasly Place, Block 15753, Lot 72, Far Rockaway, Borough of Queens.

At Supreme Court, Special Term, Part I, Mr. Justice Fitzpatrick rendered the following decision:

"In a certiorari proceeding, petitioners have moved (1) to punish respondents for contempt for their failure to file a return; (2) to cancel the building permit issued pursuant to a variance granted by the respondents, and (3) to restrain the intervenor from commencing construction of a building. Since respondents have now filed their return, the first branch of the motion has been withdrawn. Inasmuch as the petitioners had not obtained a stay, the building permit was properly issued, and, accordingly, the second branch of the motion is denied. A stay of construction will be granted however, upon petitioners posting a bond in the sum of $25,000 (Civ. Prac. Act, sec. 1299). Settle order." (N. Y. Law Journal, April 5, 1963, page 17).

At Supreme Court Special Term, Part I, Mr. Justice Margett stated, as follows:

"The court is of the opinion that there is substantial evidence in the record supporting the determination under review and consequently the court is not warranted in substituting its discretion for that exercised by the Board of Standards and Appeals. Accordingly, the application is denied and the petition dismissed. Settle order." (N. Y. Law Journal, April 29, 1963, page 20).

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:
288-43-SA—Michael C. Gray for Cardox, Division of Chemetron Corporation, requested that the resolution adopted November 3, 1943 and amended October 31, 1961 under Calendar Number 288-43-SA be reopened and amended so that the hydrostatic test pressure requirement for the Cardox Low Pressure Carbon Dioxide Storage Unit will conform to the present A.S.M.E. unfired pressure vessel code and also to permit the use of operating accessories made by other manufacturers than those specifically mentioned in the original resolution.

DESCRIPTION: The Cardox Low Pressure Carbon Dioxide Storage Unit is used as a source of supply to furnish carbon dioxide gas to fire extinguishing systems or as a source of supply for carbonating beverages, filling cylinders and for process work. It is sized in ¼ ton liquid capacity up to 12 tons liquid capacity.

The request to permit a reduced hydrostatic test pressure of 1½ times the design working pressure rather than twice the design working pressure is based on the existing A.S.M.E. code for unfired pressure vessels.

The request to permit the use of accessories of other manufacturers than those specified in the original resolution is made to permit the use of latest design equipment. These items include R-12 refrigerator, gauges, valves, alarm bell, strainer, timer, relays, switches, pop valve, rupture disc and pressure control devices. All are to be installed in accordance with the original resolution but may be of different make.

ACTION OF BOARD—Appliance approved in accordance with the report and recommendation of Committee on Test.

THE VOTE—

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:
1527-61-SA—R. S. Hampton for Lox Equipment Company, Livermore, California, filed for approval of the appliance known as Lox Liquid Oxygen, Nitrogen or Argon Customer Converter, Models 360, 625, 1150, 1280, 1870 and 2400 under the provisions of Article 17 Chapter 19 Administrative Code.

USE: To store liquefied oxygen, nitrogen or argon and to supply one of these gases under pressure to distribution systems.

DESCRIPTION: The Lox Liquid Oxygen, Nitrogen or Argon Customer Converter Models 360, 625, 1150, 1280, 1870 and 2400 are double walled storage vessels with the intervening space kept under high vacuum and filled with an incombustible powder insulation. The inner tank is made of stainless steel or other special metal suitable for pressure vessels at -300°F and is designed in accordance with the A.S.M.E. code for unfired pressure vessels. The outer tank of carbon steel is designed in accordance with the A.S.M.E. code for full vacuum but is not so stamped. It is equipped with pressure relief devices set from 2 to 5 p.s.i.g.

A control and piping circuit is located in a cabinet mounted on the tank jacket. The control circuit admits liquid into a vaporizer coil located outside the tank which is heated by ambient air and discharges the gas through a regulator into the vapor space above the liquid in the inner vessel. This regulator is set to maintain the desired tank operating pressure which is usually 125 to 175 p.s.i.g. depending upon the customer's requirement.

A second control circuit admits liquid to the main vaporizer which is also heated by ambient air. The gas is discharged through a regulator usually set between 50 and 100 p.s.i.g. depending on customer's operations. This main vaporizer may be a finned tube coil or vertical aluminum tube plates or panels.

The inner vessel is protected by a relief valve set below the design pressure and also a bursting disc set to rupture at a pressure below the test pressure. All piping in the control circuits and vaporizers is protected by safety valves between all control or hand valves or regulators. Piping is suitable for the pressures and temperatures involved and is in accordance with the A.S.A. code for piping.

The control cabinet contains a liquid level gauge to indicate the amount of liquid in the tank. A pressure gauge is provided for the liquid receiver and a second gauge is provided to indicate delivery pressure into the supply pipe line. A vacuum gauge is provided for the insulated space.

The design characteristics of the different models are as follows:

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

317-62-SM—Sudbury Laboratory, Sudbury, Mass., filed for approval of the appliance known as Aqua Clear Feeder under the provisions of the Submerged Inlet Rules of the Board.

USE: Chemical feeder to prevent rust and corrosion in water lines.

DESCRIPTION: The appliance is a device that introduces a chemical, either liquid or in hard crystal form into the water. This chemical is claimed to have an affinity for metallic oxides. In theory, when water comes in contact with most metals, oxidation commences. The chemical used in conjunction with the feeder is supposed to coat the metal with a glass like film which seals the metal against oxidation.

The contention is that the water is not treated, only the metal, the water acting as a vehicle which conveys the chemical to the metal.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The feeder was tested at the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity Test Bench, Flushing Ave., Brooklyn, New York.

The report states in part:

1. The feeder tested was not adequate to permit testing through the full range of flow required. Specifically it was not possible to obtain a test at the maximal flow rate of 100 gallons per minute.
2. The chemical used in the feeder equipment indicated no capacity for providing treatment. Our laboratory tests revealed that the treatment chemical was highly insoluble and imparted no significant change in the composition of the water subject to treatment, with the exception of the overnight diffusion test which indicated a slow pickup of chemical in the water. The sample connected with the latter test also showed an excessive amount of iron.

The conclusion gained from our findings is that in actual practice the Sudbury Laboratories must be using other chemicals or supplementing chemicals with or without the chemical they submitted for test. Presenting their feeder for test on this basis is an improper procedure and approval cannot be made on a treatment condition other than that which the applicant will actually use in practice.

RECOMENDATION: On the basis of the test and the report submitted by the Laboratory Division, Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, the Committee on Test finds that they cannot recommend approval of the appliance known as Aqua Clear Feeder as manufactured by Sudbury Laboratories, Sudbury, Mass., and therefore recommend that the application be denied.

Article 19 Chapter 26 Administrative Building Code as set forth under Local Law 74 of 1962.

USE: Aggregate for concrete.

DESCRIPTION: The material pumice, is defined as an acid vesicular glass formed from the froth on the surface of some particularly gaseous lavas.

The chemical composition of this pumice submitted by the applicant is as follows:

Silica (SiO ₂)	= 71.2%
Aluminum Oxide (Al ₂ O ₃)	= 14.5%
Iron Oxide (Fe ₂ O ₃)	= 1.3%
Calcium Oxide (CaO)	= 1.2%
Magnesium Oxide (MgO)	= 0.8%
Loss of Ignition	= 4.1%

The balance consists of Manganese and Alkali Oxides and impurities.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The applicant has submitted a report of survey made by Associates of Birmingham, England, which outlines the extent of the deposits, the equipment used at the quarry and the labor forces used.

The applicant has also submitted a report of a series of tests conducted by Gulick-Henderson Laboratories Inc. and Protexol Laboratories.

These tests included the following: Compressive strength, unit weight, modulus of elasticity, flexure strength, bond strength and determination of the properties of Pumice when in flexure and subjected to fire.

These tests were conducted on various water-cement ratios so as to give sufficient data to plot all curves necessary to evaluate the properties of Pumice as an aggregate for concrete as accepted in general engineering practice.

All steel used for reinforcing conformed to the requirements of ASTM A-15 and A-305.

The complete report of the tests with all graphs are on file with and are part of the record.

It should be noted that in the tests only the coarse Pumice was used and in all design mixes it was necessary to use natural sand as the fine aggregate.

RECOMMENDATION: Since it is the general intention of the applicant to apply for the approval of Pumice (course aggregate only as an all purpose aggregate for plain concrete average A and B concrete and controlled concrete, the Committee has taken into consideration only those sections of the Code pertaining to those classifications.

On this basis and the tests and the data supplied by the applicant, the Committee on Test, under the provisions of C26-3.0, C26-4.0, C26-189.0 and C26-191.0 Administrative Building Code, draws the following conclusions and recommends as follows in so far as granting approval under the various sections of the Administrative Building Code.

The material may be used as coarse aggregate in concrete when the concrete is designed and installed in accordance with the requirements of Article 19 Chapter 26 Administrative Building Code as set forth under Local Law 74 of 1962 with the following exceptions:

The cement content shall comply with the minimum requirements of C26-1477.0 in average concrete.

The cement content and Modulus of Elasticity for controlled concrete shall be as follows:

STRENGTH P.S.I.	MIN. BAGS OF CEMENT Per cu. yd. of concrete	Ec x 10 ⁶
2000	5	1.48
2500	5 ² / ₃	1.86
3000	6 ¹ / ₂	2.02
3500	7 ¹ / ₂	2.00
4000	8 ¹ / ₂	2.27

The committee further recommends that the material may be considered to be non corrosive and may be used under the provisions of C26-522.0 Administrative Building Code and further the Pumice may be used for top filling under C26-630.0 Administrative Building Code.

It is further recommended that, as the freeze-thaw tests were only run to and including 30 cycles, that this number is insufficient to judge its ability to withstand long time exposure and therefore recommends that concrete made with this material shall not be used in exposed locations where it would be subject to freezing and thawing conditions.

The Committee therefore recommends the approval of the material known as Pumice, coarse only, under the provisions of the Administrative Building Code as mentioned herein, on condition that each shipment of Pumice be accompanied by a bill of lading bearing the following statement, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 333-62-SM". The Committee further recommends that the Board be notified when the deposit is deposited.

APPLICANT—Charles M. Shapiro and Sons for F. Ili Donini, importer.

APPEARANCES—

For Applicant: None.

ACTION OF BOARD—Appliance approved in accordance with the report and recommendation of Committee on Test.

THE VOTE—

Negative: 0

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads: 807-62-SA—Charles M. Shapiro and Sons for F. Ili Donini, Bologna, Italy, filed for approval of the appliance known as Donini Dry Cleaning Machine (Automatic and Semi Automatic) Models INOX D1, INOX D2 and INOX D4 under the provisions of the Board's Rules Covering Dry Cleaning Establishments.

USE: Commercial type dry cleaning machines.

DESCRIPTION—The Donini dry cleaning machines are designed to use perchlorethylene as solvent. They are not designed for coin operation and are available as automatic and semi automatic machines.

Each model is made up of a stainless steel washer basket fitted with three turnover fins which are installed within a heavy galvanized steel drum. Four solvent tanks are installed as part of the assembly with an automatic rotary filter and a pump with filter for complete circulation of the solvent.

There is a condenser heater consisting of a fan and an electric or steam heating unit to warm the air which is passed to the drum for the drying cycle. The solvent vapors evaporated from the clothes are condensed and run off to the water-solvent separator and returned to the tank. The clothes are then aerated.

A distilling unit is also intalled within the casing and consists of a solvent holding tank, which is insulated for improved heating action, a port for cleaning, a level indicator, a safety valve and a thermometer. It may be electrically or steam heated.

A water cooled condenser is used to condense solvent vapors.

Automatic operation is achieved by a group of pneumatic electric valves which act through compressed air (less than 100 p.s.i.) on small cylinders which control the taps for solvent circulation during the various stages of washing and the extraction and drying periods.

MINUTES

There is an interlock coupled with the loading door so that when the door is opened during the cycle the rotation of the drum will stop and the exhaust fan will start up. In addition a water flow switch is installed that requires a flow of water to the condenser before the machine can start. A lint trap is installed in the exhaust system.

The Model INOX D1 has a basket diameter of 27.56" and 15.74" depth, nominally rated at 18 lbs.

The Model INOX D2 has a basket diameter of 31.5" and 18.30" depth, nominally rated at 26 lbs.

The Model INOX D4 has a basket diameter of 39.76" and 19.08" depth, nominally rated at 44 lbs.

INSPECTION AND TEST: A typical unit was inspected at 237 East 124th St., New York, by Assistant Engineer George F. Sklenarik and Mr. E. Shapiro and Mr. M. Fine.

The Model INOX D1 with a cubic capacity of 5.81 cubic feet is rated at 16.3 lbs. based on 2.8 lbs./cu. ft.

The Model INOX D2 with a cubic capacity of 8.52 cubic feet is rated at 23.9 lbs. based on 2.8 lbs./cu. ft.

The Model INOX D4 with a cubic capacity of 13.22 cubic feet is rated at 40 lbs. based on 2.8 lbs./cu. ft.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as Donini Dry Cleaning Machine (Automatic and Semi-Automatic) Models INOX D1, INOX D2 and INOX D4 for use in New York City when installed in accordance with the Board's Rules Covering Dry Cleaning Establishments, the Zoning Resolution of the City of New York and the Electrical Code of the City of New York provided each appliance bear a label, permanently affixed, reading, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 807-62-SA."

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads: 853-62-SA—Central Station Signals Incorporated, for Thermotech Inc., Salt Lake City, Utah, filed for approval of the appliance known as the Thermotech Fire Alarm Thermostat, Models 302, 302H and 302 EPM under the provisions of the Fire Commissioner's Requirements in Relation to the Installation of Automatic Thermostatic Fire Alarm Systems. USE: A thermostat that will respond to heat generated by fire.

DESCRIPTION: The Thermotech, Model 302 fire alarm thermostat has a temperature rating of 140° F and electrical ratings of 6-125 V ac, 5 amp; 6-25 V dc, 1 amp.

The device is a fixed temperature thermostat combining limited rate of rise response to compensate for thermostatic heat lag. It is of the open circuit spot pattern type capable of repeated operations.

It consists of an anodized aluminum tube and a phosphor-bronze strut switch assembly enclosed within the tube. One end of the tube is molded within a thermosetting plastic base used as the mounting. The opposite end of the tube is threaded to receive a slotted stainless steel screw which provides the means for adjusting the temperature setting which is factory preset.

The switch assembly consists of two phosphor-bronze spring tempered struts approximately 3²⁷/₃₂" long and 1/4" wide. The struts are .02" thick. A hole is drilled in each strut midway of their exposed area to accommodate a silver contact rivet.

Under an abnormal heat condition the aluminum tube elongates thus relieving the assembly stress which produced the bowed position of the struts. The reduction of the assembly stress permits the struts to straighten and bring the contacts together to close the circuit when a predetermined temperature is reached.

The Model 302H is designed for horizontal installations. The Model 302 EPM is designed for hazardous locations. INSPECTION AND TEST: The data submitted was examined by Assistant Engineer George F. Sklenarik.

These thermostats have been tested and approved by Underwriter's Laboratories—S 539 and E 35018A.

The Division of Fire Prevention inspected the Model 302 and a report recommending approval was submitted, Date April 2, 1963.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as Thermotech Fire Alarm Thermostat Models 302, 302H and 302 EPM for use in New York City in accordance with this report and the Fire Commissioner's Requirements in Relation to the Installation of Automatic Thermostatic Fire Alarm Systems provided that each device shall bear a label, permanently affixed reading, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 853-62-SA".

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads: 854-62-SA—Central Station Signals, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., filed for approval of the appliance known as Tempo-Set Fixed Temperature Fire Alarm Thermostat, Open and Closed Circuit, Model A under the provisions of the Fire Commissioner's Requirements in Relation to the Installation of Automatic Thermostatic Fire Alarm Systems and Article 16, Chapter 26, Administrative Building Code. USE: A thermostat to respond to heat generated by fire. DESCRIPTION: The Tempo-Set, Model A open circuit fire alarm thermostat has temperature ratings of 140° and 200°F with electrical ratings 125V ac, 1 amp; 24V dc, .5 amp or less.

The Tempo-Set Model A closed circuit is similar to the above except that it has normally closed contacts for use with releasing devices and applications other than signaling. Both these devices are of the fixed temperature spot pattern type.

MINUTES

The construction consists of a phenolic-composition base $1\frac{5}{8}$ inch in diameter and $\frac{5}{8}$ inch high on the underside of which are two $\frac{3}{32}$ " terminal screws molded to the phenolic base. The operating mechanism is a small bimetal switch assembly incorporating two terminal strip eyelets which fit over the terminal screws of the phenolic base and are securely held in place by lock washers. Hex nuts and cup washers are provided to receive the line wires.

The switch assembly consists of a small phenolic base approximately $\frac{5}{8}$ inch in diameter by $1\frac{1}{32}$ inch high which contains two stationary copper contacts, silver plated on contact side. A movable copper contact silver plated on contact side is held firmly in place by beryllium copper spring.

A phenolic insulator is press fitted in the center of the movable contact to insulate the bimetal disc from the electrical contacts. The bimetal disc is placed over the switch assembly and rests on a shoulder formed on the inside of the base. An aluminum ring is crimped over a shoulder on the outside of the base to hold the bimetal disc in position. Electrical connections to the switch mechanism are secured to the bottom of the thermostat base.

In operation heat causes unequal expansion of the laminated parts of the bimetal disc resulting finally in its snapping from a concave to a convex shape in the open circuit type and from a convex to a concave shape in the closed circuit thermostat. This movement causes the movable contact to either make or break the circuits.

The temperature setting of the device is determined by the disc used and so is non-adjustable.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The data submitted was examined by Assistant Engineer George F. Sklenarik.

The Tempo-Set Fixed Temperature Fire Alarm Thermostat, open and closed circuit, Model A has been tested and approved by Underwriters Laboratories, Signal 640. It was also examined by the Fire Department's Division of Fire Prevention. A favorable report recommending approval was submitted, date April 2, 1963.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as Tempo-Set Fixed Temperature Fire Alarm Thermostat Open and Closed Circuit, Model A for use in New York City in accordance with this report and the provisions of the Fire Commissioner's Requirements in Relation to the Installation of Automatic Thermostatic Fire Alarm Systems and also the pertinent sections of Article 16, Chapter 26, Administrative Building Code provided each device shall bear a label, permanently affixed, reading "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 854-62-SA".

COURT DECISION.

Matter of Grimaldi vs. Foley:—On May 2, 1961, the Board granted a variance under Sections 7f and 7i of the Zoning Resolution, to permit in a retail use district, the erection and maintenance of a gasoline service station, lubritorium, minor auto repairs, car washing, storage room office and sales, ground sign parking and storage of motor vehicles of the pleasure-car type only for a term of twenty years; Calendar Number 707-60-BZ; Premises 5201-5215 Avenue N and 1643-1653 East 52nd Street, northeast corner, Block 7877, Lots 4, 5, 7 and 9 Borough of Brooklyn.

In Article 78 proceeding, petitioner sought to annul determination of the Board. At Supreme Court, Special Term, Part I, Mr. Justice Eilperin dismissed the petition.

(N. Y. Law Journal, January 10, 1963, page 18).

The Appellate Division, Second Judicial Department, By Kleinfeld, Acting, P. J., Christ, Brennan, Hill and Hopkins, JJ. in the Matter of Grimaldi, pet-ap (Foley, res; Fifty States Realty Corporation, intervenor-res) rendered the following decision:

"Motion by appellants to dispense with printing of the minutes and exhibits denied. While ostensibly appellants seek to dispense with printing, actually their purpose is to abridge the record; such an application should be made at Special Term. Hence, the denial of this motion is without prejudice to an application at the Special Term to abridge the record, and without prejudice to any further motion in this court after disposition by the Special Term of such application, if made (cf. Young v. Taber, 9 App. Div. 2d 631; People ex rel. Lowenstein v. Lowenstein, 281 App. Div. 699). Motion by appellants to enlarge time to perfect their appeal granted; time enlarged to the May term beginning April 29, 1963; appeal ordered on the calendar for said term."

(N. Y. Law Journal, February 20, 1963, page 17).

At Supreme Court, Special Term, Part I, Mr. Justice DiGiovanna rendered the following decision:

"The prior granting of a motion on default to abridge the record is vacated and upon consideration of all the papers submitted the motion is denied. The court agrees with the respondent that it is necessary for the incorporation of all of the papers in the record before the appellate court. Submit order."

(N. Y. Law Journal, March 21, 1963, page 16).

The Appellate Division, Second Judicial Department, By Beldock, P.J.; Ughetta, Brennan, Hill and Hopkins, JJ. rendered the following decision:

"Motion by appellants to abridge the record on appeal and to further enlarge time to perfect appeal. Motion denied in toto."

(N. Y. Law Journal, May 2, 1963, page 15).

Scope of Rules

These rules apply to all hotels, as defined in the Administrative Code and the Multiple Dwelling Law; to all lodging houses having more than 15 sleeping rooms, or accommodating more than 15 lodgers above the first or ground story; to all public and private hospitals and asylums having more than 15 rooms, or accommodating more than 15 patients or inmates above the first or ground story; to all nurseries accommodating more than 30 children, or having a Board of Health permit for the accommodation of more than 30 children; to all Turkish or other special treatment bath houses where there are sleeping accommodations for more than fifteen persons on the premises; to all department stores having two or more departments where the public is admitted above the second floor; to all public schools, and to all single and tenant factory buildings, as defined in the Labor Law and specifically required by Section 279 of said Law.

RULES

Law

Section 279. Fire Alarm Signal Systems and Fire Drills:

1. Fire alarm signal systems. Every factory building over two stories in height in which more than twenty-five persons are employed above the ground floor shall be equipped by the owner thereof with a fire alarm signal system having a sufficient number of signals clearly audible to all occupants of the building, and so arranged as to permit the sounding of all the alarms within the building whenever the alarm is sounded in any portion thereof. Such system shall be maintained in good working order and no person shall tamper with same or render ineffective any portion thereof except to repair it. A person discovering a fire shall cause an alarm to be sounded immediately. The Board of Standards and Appeals in the City of New York, may make rules and regulations prescribing the number, character and location of the signals and the method and character of the installation, including that of all the appliances in connection therewith.

2. Exceptions. Subdivisions one and two of this section shall not apply to a building in which every square foot of the floor area on all stories is protected with an automatic sprinkler system, having two adequate sources of water supply and approved by the public authorities having jurisdiction thereof, and in which also the maximum number of occupants of any one floor does not exceed by more than fifty per centum the capacity of the exits, as determined by subdivisions one, two and three of section two hundred and seventy-eight, in addition to the prescribed occupancy under subdivisions five, six and seven of said section. If the commissioner after investigation determines that the spirit of this chapter is observed and public safety secured, he may permit in place of the automatic sprinkler system before specified, an automatic sprinkler system having one adequate source of water supply and approved by the public authorities having jurisdiction thereof.

Chapter 19—487E-2.0.c.1.

Interior Fire Alarms:—In every hotel, lodging-house, public or private hospital or asylum, department store, and public school, there shall be placed and provided, when required by the fire commissioner, an adequate and reliable electrical or other interior alarm system, to be approved by the said commissioner, by means of which alarms of fire or other danger may be instantly communicated to every portion of the building. The fire alarm apparatus and all other appliances placed or kept within any of such buildings for the purpose of preventing or extinguishing fires, or for affording means of escape therefrom in case of fire, shall be kept at all times in good working order and proper condition for immediate use, and any member of the uniformed force or authorized representative of the Fire Department may enter any of the said buildings at any time, for the purpose of inspecting such apparatus or appliances.

Rule 1. Definition of Terms.

1.1 The term "non-coded closed circuit fire alarm signal systems" shall mean a fire alarm signal system consisting of sending stations and signaling devices operated on supervised closed electric alternating current circuits, so arranged that the operation of any station will automatically sound the signaling devices throughout all portions of the building.

- 1.2 The term "coded closed circuit fire alarm signal systems" shall mean a fire alarm signal system consisting of sending stations and signaling devices operated on supervised closed electric circuits which transmits rounds of coded signals to indicate the floor or portion of the same from which the alarm was sent.
- 1.3 The term "heretofore" shall mean before December 31, 1936.
- 1.4 The term "hereafter" shall mean after December 31, 1936.
- 1.5 The term "approved" shall mean approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals.
- 1.6 The term "Commissioner" shall mean the Fire Commissioner of the fire department specifically charged with the enforcement of law relating to interior fire alarm systems in the City of New York.

Rule 2. General.

- 2.1 All fire alarm signal systems and devices shall be approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals.
- 2.2 All devices and equipment that have been approved by the Board, shall have securely fastened thereon, a manufacturer's plate bearing the words "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals—No.", together with any other electrical data that the Commissioner may require.

Rule 3. Examination and Approval of Plan.

- 3.1 Before the installation or extension of any fire alarm system, specifications and plans thereof, showing complete details of the proposed installation, shall be submitted by the owner or his agent to the Commissioner for examination and approval.

Rule 4. Classification.

- 4.1 Fire alarm signal systems shall be classified as follows:
- (a) Non-coded closed circuit fire alarm systems.
 - (b) Coded closed circuit fire alarm systems.
 - 4.1.1 The code numbers that are used shall be submitted for approval to the Commissioner and shall be sounded at least four (4) times for each operation of sending station.
- 4.2 A non-coded closed circuit system shall be so arranged that the operation of any station will automatically sound the signaling devices until hook is restored to its original position; and in the break-glass type until the glass has been replaced.
- 4.3 Coded closed circuit system shall be divided into three (3) classes:
- Class 1—General Systems.
 - Class 2—Pre-signal or dual operation systems.
 - Class 3—Unit and general systems—or Duplex systems. Special systems.
- 4.4 Class 1 systems shall be a general alarm system of the coded closed circuit type so arranged that the operation of any station will cause the signaling devices to sound the code number of that station at least four (4) times throughout the entire building.
- 4.5 Class 2 system shall be a pre-signal or dual operation system of the coded closed circuit type so arranged that the operation of any station will cause the sounding of the signaling devices located in the engine room, elevator shafts, basement or other places in the building where the members of the fire brigade work or assemble.
- 4.5.1 Approved means shall be provided at each station, so arranged that a subsequent operation of any station shall cause the sounding of all signaling devices throughout the building.

- 4.6 Class 3 system shall be a unit and general alarm or Duplex system of the coded closed circuit type so arranged that the operation of a station within a unit will cause all of the signaling devices in that unit and all of the signaling devices on the general alarm circuit to sound the code numbers of the unit and zone at least four (4) times.
- 4.6.1 An approved register and time stamp may be used in connection with a Class 3 system when approved by the Commissioner.
- 4.6.2 The register, if of closed circuit type, shall be operated from a separate closed circuit control board or from separate panel isolated by barrier from main control panel in main control board cabinet.
- 4.6.3 Approved closed circuit trouble and unit annunciators shall be installed as part of all Class 3 systems when required by the Commissioner.
- 4.7 Special systems shall include a complete Class 1, 2 or 3 systems supplemented by special circuits for the operation of other fire alarm devices in the systems; or electric control systems for stopping machinery, closing doors or ventilators as may be required by the Commissioner; or to call the central station of a private operating company or the fire department. Automatic fire detecting systems may be connected to operate an interior fire alarm system when connected thereto by an approved coded transmitter. In no case shall the transmitter be considered to replace the standard approved interior fire alarm station, except where a transmitter has been approved for both purposes. The special control circuits shall be separate and distinct from the fire alarm system but shall be brought into action whenever the fire alarm system is set in operation.

Rule 5. Systems Permitted in Factory and Other Buildings.

- 5.1 Non-coded closed circuit fire alarm systems shall be permitted only in a factory building not exceeding five (5) stories in height having not more than twenty-five hundred (2500) square feet in area in any one story and having not more than one hundred (100) persons in a single factory; nor more than fifty (50) persons in a multiple tenant factory above the first or ground floor.
- 5.2 Coded closed circuit systems shall be required in a factory building exceeding the requirements of Rule 5.1.
- 5.3 Special fire alarm signal systems shall be permitted in factory buildings at the direction of the Commissioner.
- 5.4 Coded closed circuit systems shall be required in all other types of buildings requiring an interior alarm system.

12.1.1 Either source of power shall be used under conditions and limitations as set forth by the Commissioner.

12.2 One source of energy shall be connected to the fire alarm system at all times. All auxiliary sources of energy when required shall be so arranged and controlled by an automatic switch that when the primary source of energy fails, the secondary source will be automatically connected to the fire alarm signal system. Intermediate devices are prohibited between the fire alarm control board and the source of current supply, except where specifically approved by the board for the purpose intended.

Central Stations

12.3 When the energy for a fire alarm signal system is supplied by a central station power system it shall be accepted as the sole source of supply; connections shall be made on the street side of the service switch except that in case where the master meter is within thirty (30) feet of the main switch of the premises, permission may be given by the Commissioner to connect to the house side of the meter when a certificate of recent date from an authority of competent jurisdiction has certified that the electrical wiring throughout the premises is in a safe condition. When a house side connection is made, the fire alarm cutout shall be the first connection and as near as possible to the meter. Same shall be enclosed in a locked or sealed metal cabinet, painted fire department red and stenciled "Interior Fire Alarm." Fuses shall be of the enclosed cartridge type. Screw plug fuses will not be accepted. The cutout shall be a three pole cartridge fuse cutout with neutral fuse replaced by a solid copper bar. When only one generator unit is employed, the source of energy shall be supplemented by storage battery or other auxiliary service. The fire alarm service connection shall be taken from the main bus of the house switchboard and installed in accordance with the service requirements under central stations. When a house side connection is made, the fire alarm cutout shall be the first connection and as near as possible to the meter. Same shall be enclosed in a locked or sealed metal cabinet, painted fire department red and stenciled "Interior Fire Alarm." Fuses shall be of the enclosed cartridge type. Screw plug fuses will not be accepted. The cutout shall be three pole cartridge fuse cutout with neutral fuse replaced by a solid copper bar. The smallest size fuse used on a fire alarm system shall be fifteen (15) amperes.

Fire Drill Rules, Adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals, October 5, 1923

(593-23-SR)

DEFINITION OF "FIRE DRILL"

The method and practice of the systematic and orderly vacating of a building by its occupants in case of emergency, panic or fire in the least possible time—by the nearest safe means of exit—and the use of fire appliances which shall be provided for the extinguishing or retarding of fire and the safeguarding of human life.

Rule 1.

In all buildings as defined in Article 1, Section 10 of the Labor Law in which fire drills are required pursuant to Section 279 thereof and in any other building in which such drills are required by the Fire Commissioner pursuant to the power conferred in section 491 of the New York City Charter, it shall be the duty of the owners, lessees or tenants to conduct fire drills monthly and at such other times as the Fire Commissioner may direct.

For the purpose of conducting such fire drills the owner or tenants shall appoint from among their employees such responsible and dependable persons, male or female, who shall efficiently perform the duties of the various positions of the fire drill organization, as specified on the accompanying chart.

It shall be the duty of the owner or tenant to enter in the blank spaces provided for that purpose in said chart the names of persons so selected and post said chart and copies of the rules in a conspicuous place.

RULES

Rule 2. Duties of Foreman.

The Foreman or Person in Charge shall direct, enforce and have full charge of the "Fire Drill" in every factory on each floor. Each day before work is begun he shall see that extinguishers, fire hose, fire buckets, etc., are in readiness for use, exit doors are unlocked, aisles are free from obstruction, that stairways, halls, etc., are properly lighted, and shall remedy any dangerous condition found to exist. Immediately after work is commenced he shall check up the Fire Drill Organization list and note if the regularly assigned persons are present; if any are found to be absent, he shall assign other employees (if practicable) to perform their duties.

He shall immediately notify new employees of the existence of the Fire Drill Organization and give them the necessary instructions as to the duties they are to perform, etc.

He shall be familiar with the operation and location of the interior alarm signal box on his floor.

He shall listen for the test signal each morning at the appointed hour and in the event of the test signal not being heard he shall communicate with the superintendent or other person in charge of the building and advise him of the fact. The (Floor Captain's) Foreman's orders are final as to the carrying out of the fire drill on his particular floor.

Rule 3. Duties of Watchmen.

The WATCHMEN shall see that all doors and windows are closed so as to prevent the spread of fire. The WATCHMEN shall be the only persons permitted to remain on the floor during the progress of a fire drill and do so at their own risk. For ordinary purposes only one watchman and a substitute shall be designated. In special cases, however, extra watchmen may be assigned by consent in writing from Fire Commissioner.

Rule 4. Duties of Searchers.

The MALE AND FEMALE SEARCHERS shall search all toilets, dressing rooms and emergency rooms used and frequented by their sex and all other portions of the floor and order all persons, except those authorized to remain, to leave the premises. They are to take care of and assist all persons who may faint or be disabled.

SEARCHERS shall leave the floor immediately after the last squad leaves.

Rule 5. Duties of Street Alarm Box Runner.

The STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall be familiar with the location of the nearest city fire alarm box and know how it is operated.

In ordinary practice fire drills the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall report to the Foreman for orders, and if his services are not required he shall promptly file out of the premises with the other occupants.

Only when a fire actually occurs on his floor, or when ordered to do so by the Foreman, shall the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER proceed to the street alarm box and send in the fire alarm.

Rule 6. Duties of Fire Brigade.

The fire brigade shall have full charge of the operation of all auxiliary fire fighting apparatus and shall endeavor to extinguish, or at least hold in check until the arrival of the Fire Department, any fire that may occur. When it is necessary for the fire brigade to respond to different floors in the building they shall not use the stairways or fire escapes while the occupants are escaping from the premises.

Rule 7. Duties of Exit Guards.

The EXIT GUARDS shall station themselves at all exit doors leading to fire escapes, stairways, and other means of escape immediately upon the sounding of the alarm. There shall be two guards for each exit, if practicable; one to stand in the hallway holding back the door and the other directly inside on the floor. They are to keep the exit doors open and direct the movements of the persons using these exits and prevent congestion.

EXIT GUARDS shall remain at their stations until all of the occupants of the building have passed their station. Then close their doors and pass out of the building. Upon signal for the occupants to return, EXIT GUARDS shall take their designated stations and remain there until all persons have returned to their respective floors.

Rule 8. Duties of Squad Monitors.

The SQUAD MONITORS, as soon as the alarm is sounded, shall see that the employees under their charge quickly form into line, two abreast, and numbering not more than thirty to each squad. They shall see that all aisles and passageways are cleared of obstructions.

Note: Chairs, stools, baskets, etc., should be pushed under or placed on top of work benches.

MONITORS shall proceed at the head of their respective squads to the exit assigned, and then march up or down the stairs or to other exits as directed by the EXIT GUARDS.

On reaching the sidewalk MONITORS shall keep their squads in order and lead them a reasonable distance from the building, so as not to cause congestion and interference with fire apparatus. When the proper signal is given they shall return to their respective floors at head of their squads.

RULES

MONITORS will at all times see that those under their charge conduct themselves in a respectable and orderly manner.

Rule 9. Holding of Drills.

FIRE DRILLS shall be held at least once each month at varied hours of the day, and all of the occupants shall participate therein simultaneously. Such drills shall conduct all occupants to a place of safety.

Where dual operation interior fire alarm systems are installed as permitted under Rule 10.1 of the interior fire alarm rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals, the fire drill conducted each month shall include all of the persons on the premises engaged at work for a factory, and drills shall be conducted at least twice, each year in which all of the persons on the premises shall participate simultaneously.

Rule 10. Duties of Owner.

It shall be the duty of the OWNER, LESSEE OR TENANT OF THE BUILDING or his authorized agent or their representatives to personally observe that the "Fire Drill" is held simultaneously on every floor of the building and the participation therein of every occupant of such building. Any FIRE DRILL in which all of the occupants do not participate shall not be considered as complying with the LAW, except as otherwise provided in these rules.

The person or persons representing the OWNERS, LESSEE OR TENANT, who supervises the FIRE DRILL at the building shall submit to an examination by the Division of Fire Prevention as to their experience and general fitness for such duties, and shall be so certified in writing by the FIRE COMMISSIONER.

It shall be the duty of the ENGINEER, SUPERINTENDENT or other PERSON IN CHARGE, of a building having an interior fire alarm system to test such system daily, immediately after the beginning of business, and to see that all apparatus operated by springs, requiring winding are rewound after each alarm and kept in normal condition for operation.

Rule 11. Duties of Engineer.

Whenever it is necessary to test the fire alarm system at any other time of the day, owing to repairs, etc., being made, the PERSON IN CHARGE OF BUILDING will first notify all Foremen of the several floors of the intended test and likewise notify them when the repairs, etc. are completed. This precaution is taken to prevent confusion and excitement, also misunderstanding of the alarm signals.

It shall also be the duty of the PERSON IN CHARGE OF BUILDING to sound the interior alarm system at irregular intervals, but not less than once each calendar month, for the purpose of holding practice fire drills. He shall keep on the premises a record of such drills, showing the date when held and the required time for all occupants to reach the street or a point of safety outside the building.

The PERSON IN CHARGE OF BUILDING must immediately acquaint new tenants of the existence of the "Fire Drill" Organization and its purport.

Rule 12. Registration.

The name and address of every person, corporation or co-partnership, that will, under professional service, carry on the trade, business or calling of establishing, maintaining or supervising the "Fire Drill" shall be registered in the Fire Department, which Department shall, upon evidence of fitness, grant a certificate to that effect.

COURT DECISION

Matter of Vali v. Foley:—On January 16, 1962, the Board denied their appeal from a decision of the Borough Superintendent in regard to change in use; Calendar Number 482-61-A; Premises 165 West 80th Street, north side, 150 feet east of Amsterdam Avenue, Block 1211, Lot 7, Borough of Manhattan.

At Supreme Court, Special Term, Part I, Mr. Justice Mullen rendered the following decision:

"Application by respondents to vacate the order of certiorari, to dismiss the petition and to affirm a determination of the respondent board of standards and appeals. By the certiorari order and petition, petitioners seek a review and reversal of a determination of said board which denied their application for the issuance of a permit to change the use of three apartments in their five story multiple dwelling to single room occupancy. . . . When the amended plans were filed and approved, any prior permits were nullified. Since there was then no valid permit outstanding, which permitted the alterations, petitioners do not qualify under any of the exceptions to the said conversion bar. Accordingly, the motion is in all respects granted. Settle order." (N. Y. Law Journal, May 3, 1963, page 15).

23-59-SM—Certified Industrial Products, Inc., New Jersey, filed for approval of the material known as Permalite and/or Certified Perlite Plaster Aggregate under the provisions of C26-446.0 Administrative Building Code.

USE: Spandrel wall.

DESCRIPTION: The perlite itself used in the construction was approved by the Board under Calendar Number 776-49-SM.

The construction of the wall is as follows and is basically a 4" thick perlite portland cement plaster applied to paper backed wire fabric and encasing steel framing members having provisions for attachment of weather resisting material to the exterior surface.

Anchors are placed to form a lintel and sill and these anchors are made of $\frac{3}{8}$ " steel plates. The steel framing members consists of 2" x 2" x $\frac{3}{8}$ " angles placed back to back, spaced 2'-0" on centers. At locations where fasteners are desired to tie in the weather facing $\frac{1}{4}$ " x 8" x 12" aluminium plates are provided. These plates are welded or riveted between the backs of the steel angles. Where these are used, a $\frac{1}{4}$ " x 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ " steel filler bar is welded between the backs of the angles to maintain the $\frac{1}{4}$ " spacing between the backs of the angles. The top and bottom of the angles are provide with $\frac{1}{2}$ " x 2 $\frac{5}{8}$ " slotted holes through which 7/16" bolts are placed to secure the framing angles to the sill and lintel.

The steel framing members was wrapped with $\frac{3}{8}$ " diamond mesh flat expanded lath held in place with double loops of tie wire spaced 6" on centers.

Plastic clips placed 8" on centers are then fastened to the metal lath wrapping. The paper backed lath is then secured to each of the clips and stiffeners with a single loop of tie wire. The stiffeners are 3/16" diameter and are spaced 2'-0" on centers in a horizontal plane.

A perlite and portland cement plaster of a mix of 1 cu. ft. of cement to 4 cu. ft. of perlite and 3 lbs. of asbestos fiber is then applied to the paper backed lath to a depth of 4".

When the concrete has set floor and ceiling runners are attached. Between the floor and ceiling runners $\frac{3}{4}$ " furring channels are placed 13 $\frac{1}{2}$ " on centers. Aluminum foil faced wire fabric is then wire tied to the channels.

A scratch coat of 1 bag of gypsum to 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ cu. ft. of perlite is applied to the lath and the brown coat of 1 bag of gypsum to 4 cu. ft. of perlite is then applied to the scratch coat. A finish coat is then applied so that the total thickness of plaster is 1" over the face of the lath.

The total overall thickness of the wall is 5".

The construction is in conformity with Drawing R 3302 which is on file with and is part of the record.

INSPECTION AND TEST: A wall constructed as herein described was tested at the Underwriters Laboratories in accordance with the requirements of C26-591.0 and C26-592.0 and successfully met the requirements of a four hour fire resistive wall. Similar walls were load tested to meet the requirements of C26-446.0 Administrative Building Code.

The complete reports are on file with and are part of the record.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the material known as Permalite and/or Certified Perlite Aggregate for use in New York City as a component part of a spandrel wall as having met the requirements of C26-446.0 Administrative Building Code on condition that the exterior face of the wall shall be sheathed with stainless steel, aluminum or other weather resisting material, with a maximum size as tested, that the wall shall be constructed as herein described and further that all plans submitted to the Department of Building showing the proposed use of this construction shall be labeled, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 23-59-SM".

72-59-SM—Amendment to resolution as to additional fire resistive rating.

Armstrong Cork Company, New York City, requested that the resolution adopted June 2, 1959, and amended through January 15, 1963, under Calendar Number 72-59-SM be reopened and amended so as to include additional acoustical tiles and the use of such tile as a component part of a fire resistive floor/ceiling assembly.

USE: The assembly affords a 3 hour fire resistive floor and ceiling construction.

DESCRIPTION: The mineral wool acoustical Fire Guard tile used in conjunction with the other components to afford a 3 hour fire resistive rating is of a similar mineral wool composition as the presently approved tile. Two tests were made one using 12" x 12" x $\frac{5}{8}$ " Ventilating Fire Guard Tile and the other using 12" x 12" x $\frac{3}{4}$ " Ventilating

MINUTES

Travertone Fire Guard Tile, the difference being that they are made in different plants on different machines and have different surface textures and patterns and some holes extending through the tiles.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The tiles were tested as a component part of a floor/ceiling assembly consisting of 1½" cellular steel topped by 2½" of concrete supported on steel beams. Number 12 hanging wire was passed through holes in the steel floor to support 1½" cold rolled carrying channels approximately 4' o.c. Zee Runners spaced 12" on center were attached to the bottom of carrying channels by means of wire clips. These Zee Runners supported the tiles. The assembly was penetrated with 12" wide troffer recessed lights with tent type protection. The tent type protection was made from Fire Guard Boards and Fire Guard Nailing panel as approved on June 26, 1962 under this same Calendar Number. The assembly also contained undampened duct openings. The same Fire Guard Nailing Panel was cut to fit the width of the duct and placed on top of the rectangular header duct over the round duct opening.

The floor/ceiling construction as herein described was tested at the Underwriters' Laboratories under the provisions of C26-609.0 Administrative Building Code and successfully meet the requirements of a three hour fire resistive floor and ceiling construction. The complete reports of Underwriters' Laboratories R4177-13 and R4177-14 are on file with and are part of the record.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends that the resolution adopted June 2, 1959 and amended through January 15, 1963, under Calendar Number 72-59-SM be reopened and amended so as to include the approval of the material known as Armstrong Ventilating Travertone Fire Guard 12" x 12" x ¾" and Armstrong Ventilating Fire Guard 12" x 12" x ⅝" as a component part of a 3 hour fire resistive floor and ceiling assembly.

The Committee further recommends that when lighting fixtures and air diffusing duct outlets are installed in the ceiling the construction shall conform to Drawing 4177-13 which is on file with and is part of the record, (except that the No. 12 wire shall not be used; but straps in accordance with C26-461.0 shall be installed), and when no light fixtures or air diffusing duct outlets are installed, the construction shall comply with Drawing 4177-14 which is on file with and is part of the record and further that the requirements of the resolution adopted June 2, 1959 and amended through January 15, 1963 under Calendar Number 72-59-SM are complied with.

932-62-SA—Morris Kweller for Hoffman International Corporation, New York, N. Y., filed for approval of the appliance known as Hoffman Dry Cleaning Machine, Matador 35 lb. under the provisions of the Board's Rules Covering Dry Cleaning Establishments.

USE: A commercial type dry cleaning machine.

DESCRIPTION: The Hoffman Matador 35 single bath cold unit is designed for use with perchlorethylene solvent only. It takes approximately 150 gallons of solvent to fill the unit including the filter allowing sufficient solvent in the base tank to operate the machine.

The washer basket is of stainless steel and is 30 inches in diameter and 22 inches deep. It is divided into two separate compartments each with its own individual loading door. The outer door which is interlocked with the washer so that it cannot rotate when the door is opened is 22" x 10 $\frac{3}{4}$ ".

The entire unit is equipped with dump valve, motors, pump, filter, automatic or manual timing mechanism and fan exhaust outlet.

When all the doors are closed and the washer is in the automatic run cycle, the dump valve will be closed permitting continuous flow of solvent through the washer. At the end of the cleaning cycle the washer goes through a drain period at which point the dump valve will be opened permitting solvent to drain into the base tank. After the drain period the machine goes into the extract cycle. Upon completion of the extracting cycle, the washer cylinder will stop and a bell will ring indicating completion of the cleaning cycle.

Cycle timing is accomplished by the use of synchronous motors, cams and switches.

The extracted clothes are finally dried in a separate approved dryer. Other auxiliary equipment used for muck cooking and solvent reclamation is to be of approved type.

INSPECTION AND TEST: A Matador 35 lb. machine was inspected at 3234 Nostrand Ave., Brooklyn, by Assistant Engineer George F. Sklenarik. Present was Mr. M. Kweller representing the applicant.

The cubical content of the washer basket is about 9 cubic feet which, at 2.8 lbs. per cubic foot, gives the machine a rating of 25 lbs.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as Hoffman Dry Cleaning Machine, Matador 35 lb. for use in New York City when installed in accordance with the Board's Rules Covering Dry Cleaning Establishments, the Zoning Resolution of the City of New York and the Electrical Code of the City of New York, and provided that each machine shall bear a label, permanently affixed, reading, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 932-62-SA".

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

22-63-SA—M. Kweller for United Twin Division, Altamil Corporation, Indianapolis, Indiana, filed for approval of the appliance known as United Twin Professional Dry Cleaner, Coin Operated and Non-Coin Operated Model 200.1-1 under the provisions of the Board's Rules Covering Dry Cleaning Establishments and the Rules Covering Coin-Operated Dry Cleaning Establishments.

USE: A dry cleaning machine using perchlorethylene solvent.

DESCRIPTION: The United Twin Professional Dry

Cleaner (coin operated or non-coin operated) Model 200.1-1 is a two basket assembly consisting of two stainless steel washer baskets installed in enclosing steel drums, a heavy gauge sheet steel solvent tank of 70 gallons capacity, wash, extract, and blower fan motors, a solvent pump, electric air heaters, filter, lint trap, activated carbon cylinder for dye and fatty acid control, water separator, sludge remover and water cooled condenser all interpipied with suitable valves to control the flow of solvent.

All steel components are galvanized, cadmium plated or are coated with a baked epoxy.

The cycle sequence is as follows:

Delay period, 1 minute. This allows for addition or subtraction from the load prior to solvent being introduced into cylinder. During this minute the loading door may be unlocked and opened thus stopping the machine and the control timer.

Wash Cycle, 9 minutes. Deemed adequate for proper cleaning.

Drain 1 minute.

Extract Cycle 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ minutes.

Dry Period Controlled thermostatically for maximum solvent recovery.

Aeration 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ minutes. To cool and freshen garments.

In the event of power failure the loading doors remain in the locked position and cannot be unlocked until power difficulties have been corrected. The doors cannot be unlocked until blower motors have reached operating speed to insure in-draft through the loading door opening. A high limit temperature safety is also provided.

Drain and overflow valves from the washing chambers are safety spring loaded to open and prevent a high solvent level.

The coin operated machines are fully automatic and the loading doors remain locked from the start of the wash cycle until completion of aeration.

INSPECTION AND TEST: A United Twin unit was inspected at premises 25-21 Broadway, Queens, by Assistant Engineer George F. Sklenarik. Present was Mr. M. Kweller representing the applicant.

The Model 200.1-1 has a basket capacity of 4.55 cubic feet which at 2.8 lbs. per cubic foot is rated at 12.74 lbs.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as United Twin Professional Dry Cleaner, Coin Operated and Non-Coin Operated, Model 200.1-1 for use in New York City where permitted in the Zoning Resolution and, for coin operated machines, when installed in accordance with the Board's Rules for Coin-Operated Dry Cleaning Establishments and, for non-coin operated machines, when installed in accordance with the Board's Rules Covering Dry Cleaning Establishments provided that each machine shall bear a label, permanently affixed, reading, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 22-63-SA".

ACTION OF BOARD—Appliance approved in accordance with the report and recommendation of Committee on Test.

THE VOTE—

Negative: 0

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

230-63-SA—Fuel Watchman Company, Bronx, N. Y., filed for approval of the appliance known as Smoke Watchman Models SW-60 and SWR-1 under the provisions of C26-191.0 Administrative Building Co.

USE: A smoke detector for installation at the flue pipe of heavy oil burning or soft coal burning boilers.

DESCRIPTION: This device consists of three parts, a 6 volt light source, a cadmium sulphide photo electric cell and a remote two minute shut off.

The light source and photo electric cell are mounted on opposite sides of the flue pipe. The remote shut off is mounted near the control panel.

An audible signal and a light signal are part of the Smoke Watchman. Once started, the signal will stay on even after the smoke condition has been corrected until the manual reset has been pushed in.

An automatic shut off will stop the operation of the burner after two minutes until adjustment is made to abate an excessive smoke emission.

INSPECTION AND TEST: A typical installation was inspected at 71-44 Yellowstone Blvd., Queens, by Assistant Engineer George F. Sklenarik. Present were Mr. G. Stryko, the applicant and Mr. E. Lepowsky his agent.

The light source and photocell were installed at an opening where the flue gas pressure was negative.

The primary control on the burner shut it down after a simulated flame failure condition was established.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as Smoke Watchman Models SW-60 and SFR-1 for use in New York City when installed in accordance with this report and to the satisfaction of the Department of Air Pollution Control and provided that the installation of such equipment will not interfere with the operation of the oil burner safety control when connected to a burner shut-off or in any way with the draft or passage of flue gases through the heating device, the Committee further recommends that each installation bear a label, permanently affixed, reading, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 230-63-SA".

RULES

Fire Drill Rules, Adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals, October 5, 1923

(593-23-SR)

DEFINITION OF “FIRE DRILL”

The method and practice of the systematic and orderly vacating of a building by its occupants in case of emergency, panic or fire in the least possible time—by the nearest safe means of exit—and the use of fire appliances which shall be provided for the extinguishing or retarding of fire and the safeguarding of human life.

Rule 1.

In all buildings as defined in Article 1, Section 10 of the Labor Law in which fire drills are required pursuant to Section 279 thereof and in any other building in which such drills are required by the Fire Commissioner pursuant to the power conferred in section 491 of the New York City Charter, it shall be the duty of the owners, lessees or tenants to conduct fire drills monthly and at such other times as the Fire Commissioner may direct.

For the purpose of conducting such fire drills the owner or tenants shall appoint from among their employees such responsible and dependable persons, male or female, who shall efficiently perform the duties of the various positions of the fire drill organization, as specified on the accompanying chart.

It shall be the duty of the owner or tenant to enter in the blank spaces provided for that purpose in said chart

the names of persons so selected and post said chart and copies of the rules in a conspicuous place.

Rule 2. Duties of Foreman.

The Foreman or Person in Charge shall direct, enforce and have full charge of the "Fire Drill" in every factory on each floor. Each day before work is begun he shall see that extinguishers, fire hose, fire buckets, etc., are in readiness for use, exit doors are unlocked, aisles are free from obstruction, that stairways, halls, etc., are properly lighted, and shall remedy any dangerous condition found to exist. Immediately after work is commenced he shall check up the Fire Drill Organization list and note if the regularly assigned persons are present; if any are found to be absent, he shall assign other employees (if practicable) to perform their duties.

He shall immediately notify new employees of the existence of the Fire Drill Organization and give them the necessary instructions as to the duties they are to perform, etc.

He shall be familiar with the operation and location of the interior alarm signal box on his floor.

He shall listen for the test signal each morning at the appointed hour and in the event of the test signal not being heard he shall communicate with the superintendent or other person in charge of the building and advise him of the fact. The (Floor Captain's) Foreman's orders are final as to the carrying out of the fire drill on his particular floor.

Rule 3. Duties of Watchmen.

The WATCHMEN shall see that all doors and windows are closed so as to prevent the spread of fire. The WATCHMEN shall be the only persons permitted to remain on the floor during the progress of a fire drill and do so at their own risk. For ordinary purposes only one watchman and a substitute shall be designated. In special cases, however, extra watchmen may be assigned by consent in writing from Fire Commissioner.

Rule 4. Duties of Searchers.

The MALE AND FEMALE SEARCHERS shall search all toilets, dressing rooms and emergency rooms used and frequented by their sex and all other portions of the floor and order all persons, except those authorized to remain, to leave the premises. They are to take care of and assist all persons who may faint or be disabled.

SEARCHERS shall leave the floor immediately after the last squad leaves.

Rule 5. Duties of Street Alarm Box Runner.

The STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall be familiar with the location of the nearest city fire alarm box and know how it is operated.

In ordinary practice fire drills the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall report to the Foreman for orders, and if his services are not required he shall promptly file out of the premises with the other occupants.

Only when a fire actually occurs on his floor, or when ordered to do so by the Foreman, shall the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER proceed to the street alarm box and send in the fire alarm.

Rule 6. Duties of Fire Brigade.

The fire brigade shall have full charge of the operation of all auxiliary fire fighting apparatus and shall endeavor to extinguish, or at least hold in check until the arrival of the Fire Department, any fire that may occur. When it is necessary for the fire brigade to respond to different floors in the building they shall not use the stairways or fire escapes while the occupants are escaping from the premises.

Rule 7. Duties of Exit Guards.

The EXIT GUARDS shall station themselves at all exit doors leading to fire escapes, stairways, and other means of escape immediately upon the sounding of the alarm. There shall be two guards for each exit, if practicable; one to stand in the hallway holding back the door and the other directly inside on the floor. They are to keep the exit doors open and direct the movements of the persons using these exits and prevent congestion.

EXIT GUARDS shall remain at their stations until all of the occupants of the building have passed their station. Then close their doors and pass out of the building. Upon signal for the occupants to return, EXIT GUARDS shall take their designated stations and remain there until all persons have returned to their respective floors.

Rule 8. Duties of Squad Monitors.

The SQUAD MONITORS, as soon as the alarm is sounded, shall see that the employees under their charge quickly form into line, two abreast, and numbering not more than thirty to each squad. They shall see that all aisles and passageways are cleared of obstructions.

Note: Chairs, stools, baskets, etc., should be pushed under or placed on top of work benches.

MONITORS shall proceed at the head of their respective squads to the exit assigned, and then march up or down the stairs or to other exits as directed by the

EXIT GUARDS.

On reaching the sidewalk MONITORS shall keep their squads in order and lead them a reasonable distance from the building, so as not to cause congestion and interference with fire apparatus. When the proper signal is given they shall return to their respective floors at head of their squads.

The application was subject for dismissal but was taken from dismissal list at the request of applicant.

USE: Appliance used for pressure sterilizing.

DESCRIPTION: The sterilizers are of the horizontal vacuum pressure type, steam jacketed, designed for operating pressure of 20 p.s.i.

The backhead, door frame and tube which form the chamber and steam jacket are made of Monel metal. The exterior of steam jacket is covered with air cell asbestos confined by a finishing jacket of stainless steel.

The door and hinges are of cast bronze and the door is provided with a locking arrangement, positive in action, and actuated by internal steam pressure, unlocked only by exhaust of the pressure.

The steam supply includes a steam strainer, hand shut-off valve and automatic pressure control valve. The steam jacket is drained of air and condensate by thermostatic steam trap with strainer and check valve.

The drying system consists of an ejector valve to create suction and air filters for admission of filtered air. The steam exhaust connection stops at the rear of the sterilizer with a 1-inch atmospheric exhaust opening, drained through sanitary air break to waste. Other equipment includes vacuum pressure chamber gauge, pressure jacket gauge, safety valve, jacket vacuum release and necessary operating valves and fittings.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Details of construction were examined by Assistant Engineer John A. Darts, and it was noted that the water supply line is protected by an approved vacuum breaker and check valve. The appliance is constructed in accordance with A.S.M.E. requirements for Un-fired Pressure Vessels.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Tests were conducted at the Underwriters Laboratories in accordance with the requirements of C26-588.0 through C26-590.0 and C26-609.0 Administrative Building Code.

1.) The first construction consisted of a cellular steel deck with 2½ inches of reinforced concrete, measured from the top plane of the deck units, on top of the cellular deck. The ceiling side is protected with ½ inch of Cafco, this ½ inch is tamped thickness, sprayed to the underside and following the contour of the deck. This construction is in conformity with Drawing 3789-3 which is on file with and part of the record.

2.) The second construction tested was similar to the first construction except that a structural beam was incorporated into the construction and the beam was protected by ¾ inch of Cafco, this thickness is tamped thickness, sprayed directly to and following the contour of the beam. THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:
95-60-SM—Butler Manufacturing Company, Kansas City, Mo., filed for approval of the material known as Stylux and Lite Panel for use in New York City under the provisions of C26-191.0 Administrative Building Code.

USE: Material to be used in locations where glass is allowed such as skylights, patio roofs, awnings, partitions, etc.
DESCRIPTION: Both the materials, Stylux and Lite Panel are manufactured with a minimum of 15% methyl methacrylate monomer acrylic modified polyester resin and glass fiber reinforced.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The material has been tested by Penn State University, Factory Mutual and United States Testing Laboratories, and the material is rated as slow burning or self extinguishing.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test is of the opinion that, as the material cannot be rated as incombustible under the requirements of C26-88.0 Administrative Building Code, but may be described as self extinguishing, the approval of the material recommended be limited in scope to the following uses:

Subdividing partitions, partitions in Class I Building 150'-0" or less in height as provided under C26-667.5 Administrative Building Code.

Patio roofs, outside the fire limits as being considered as a miscellaneous and temporary structure as set forth under C26-543.0 Administrative Building Code.

As a plastic light diffuser under the provisions of C26-461.1 Administrative Building Code on condition that the plastic be suspended in an approved suspension system, that the plastic so used shall be the self extinguishing type and so labeled, and that when used as a light diffusing system in sprinklered locations, sprinklers shall be below the plastic light diffusing ceiling.

As awnings except in locations prohibited under C26-219.0 Administrative Building Code.

The Committee further recommends the material Stylux and Lite Panel may be used for the glazing of windows in schools as defined under C26-132.0 and C26-133.0 Administrative Building Code on condition that this material shall not be used in locations that require a fire resistive opening protective assembly, that the school buildings in which this material is used shall not exceed 75'-0" in height and that the glazing compounds used shall only be those as specified by the manufacturer of Stylux and Lite Panel, and further that all containers or cartons in which the material is marketed shall be labeled or stamped, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 95-60-SM", and that the Stylux and Lite Panels that are "self extinguishing" shall be labeled so as to distinguish it from the material that is slow burning.

389-60-SA—Wyandotte Chemical Corporation, Wyandotte, Michigan, filed for approval of the appliance known as Wyandotte Poreen Injector R-13 under the provisions of the Submerged Inlet Rules of the Board.

USE: Injector for final rinse additive.

DESCRIPTION: The appliance is a device that feeds a small quantity of wetting agent into the final rinse line of commercial dishwashing machines.

The injector is usually placed on top of the dishwasher and the impact fitting is located in the final rinse line on the discharge side of a vacuum breaker but ahead of the spray nozzle.

In operation, a bottle of Poreen, the wetting agent, is screwed into the injector. When the rinse valve opens, the wetting agent will begin to rise through a flowmeter tube. As the injector operates, water displaces the Poreen from the bottle.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Details of construction were examined by Assistant Engineer John A. Darts, and it was noted that the installation requires a vacuum breaker and check valve.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as Wyandotte Poreen Injector R-13 for voluntary use in New York City when installed with an approved vacuum breaker and check valve in accordance with the requirements of the Submerged Inlet Rules of the Board, and that the appliance bear a

USE: Acoustical and thermal insulation—Fireproofing Steel columns.

DESCRIPTION: The Asbestospray is a mineral fibred material consisting of asbestos and rockwool fibres to which has been added a dry mineral binder. These materials are mixed together and packed in paper sacks for delivery to the point of installation. At the installation asbestospray is put into a machine designed for the purpose of willowing and blowing these fibres to the particular area to be treated with the asbestospray. The fibres are discharged through a special nozzle or spray head into which is introduced water. The atomized jets thereupon converge upon the dry fibres just as they leave the gun. The fibres are thereby wetted down in proper fashion to cause the activation of the mineral binder. Before blowing the fibres, a milky white latex binder is first sprayed on to the surfaces to be treated. This adhesive is water soluble before setting and is known as Asbestospray adhesive. The Asbestospray may be applied to any rigid surface such as metal, concrete, brick, plaster, rocklath or wirelath. These surfaces may be painted or unpainted. The Asbestospray may also be applied to steel columns, steel beams, and girders, and cellular steel floors for the purpose of fireproofing same.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Samples of the material were tested at the Fire Research Station, Boreham Wood, Herts, England, under the supervision of an R. W. Hunt representative, acting for the Board. The material was tested in accordance with A.S.T.M. E-119-58 with the following results:

TEST: S.I. 2320

An American section 8 WF35 steel column was provided at its ends with steel cap and base plates to form a stanchion of overall length 11 ft. 6 in. Seven thermocouples were peened into the inner face of the flanges at 15 in. centers for measuring the steel temperature during the test and concrete insulators were cast on to each end of the column, leaving a length of 9 ft. 9 in. of steel unprotected.

After wetting the steel with Asbestospray adhesive the Asbestospray Type "T" Fibre was applied by spraying, the insulation following the contours of the column and being built up and lightly tamped to the final thickness. Measurements made just before the test at twelve points on the column flanges showed that the thickness of insulation varied between $1\frac{5}{8}$ in. and 2 in. with an average value of $1\frac{3}{4}$ inches. After spraying the column was allowed to mature for 24 weeks before testing.

The column was placed in position in a hydraulically operated loading press which afforded restraint in position and direction at both ends, and axial load of $72\frac{1}{2}$ British Tons was applied. During the test this load was maintained constant and the column was allowed to expand longitudinally without increase of stress.

The fire test was carried out by enclosing the column, while under load, in a cylindrical gas-fired furnace which was controlled to follow the time temperature relationship defined in A.S.T.M. E 119-58. Furnace temperatures were measured continuously during the test by means of eight thermocouples enclosed in black steel tubes and arranged symmetrically in the furnace with their hot junctions 12 in. from the specimen. The longitudinal expansion of the column was measured by means of two dial gauges fixed in contact with the moving beam of the loading press.

The maximum expansion of the column was reached after 2 hours 20 minutes heating and the test was stopped when buckling occurred at 2 hours 47 minutes. Until this time no cracks or other significant change had been observed in the Asbestospray Fibre. When failure occurred the mean and maximum steel temperatures were 584°C and 615°C respectively.

This test specimen and procedure was similar to test S.I. 2320 except for the following:

The steel column was protected with $2\frac{1}{8}$ in. thickness of Asbestospray Type "T" Fibre. Measurements made just before the test at 12 points on the column flanges showed that the thickness of insulation varied between 2 in. and $2\frac{5}{16}$ in., with an average value of $2\frac{1}{8}$ inches.

The axial load applied was $70\frac{1}{2}$ British tons during test. The maximum expansion of the column was reached after 2 hours and 50 minutes heating and the test was stopped when buckling occurred at 3 hours 18 minutes. When failure occurred the mean and maximum steel temperature were 584°C and 614°C respectively.

The mean and maximum steel temperatures at 2 hours for the test described in F.R.O. S.I. No. 2320 and at 3 hours for the test described in F.R.O. S.I. No. 2321 are given below.

S.I. 2320 at 2 hours 431°C (808°F) Mean 460°C 860°F Maximum.

S.I. 2321 at 3 hours 541°C (1006°F) Mean 561°C (1042°F) Maximum.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the material known as Asbestospray Type "T" Fibre, having a fire resistive rating of two hours for column protection only for voluntary use in New York City as an thermal insulation in accordance with the requirements of Article 11, Chapter 26, Administrative Building Code. WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

287-63-SA—Photobell Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., filed for approval of the appliance Known as Photobell Co., Inc., Automatic Smoke Alarm and Shut-Off Model SM2 under the provisions of C26-191.0 of the Administrative Building Code.

USE: A smoke detector for installation at the flue pipe of heavy oil burning or soft coal burning boilers.

DESCRIPTION: The Photobell Model SM2 smoke detector consists of a dual photocell receiver and a light projector mounted on an iron connecting pipe which is passed through openings made in opposite sides of the breeching or flue pipe.

Light from a 60 watt or larger bulb is focused through the openings to impinge on the receiver photocells. The receiver in turn is wired through suitable electrical components to a low voltage trouble bell and red signal light and also to the oil burner cut off.

When the oil burner is connected to the a.c. supply the SM2 receives a.c. current also and is immediately operative. If smoke greater than #2 on the standard smoke chart occurs in the flue pipe, the red signal light on the receiver lights and the bell rings. If the smoke should then reduce below #1 on the chart the red signal light extinguishes and the bell ceases. However if the dense smoke persists for longer than a 1 to 2 minute interval then the oil burner control circuit opens, the bell and signal light continue independently of the smoke until there is manual operation of the reset button.

This type of detector is to be installed at a point where the draft in the flue pipe is negative.

INSPECTION AND TEST: A typical unit was inspected at the plant of the applicant 12 East 22nd St., New York, N. Y., by Assistant Engineer George F. Sklenarik and Mr. A. Edelman representing the applicant.

The detector was adjusted by use of a filter screen made to cut off light intensity equivalent to the passage of 40% smoke—No. 2 on the standard smoke chart.

Visible and audible alarms were energized when the filter was placed across the light beam. After 90 seconds the oil burner cut off was energized.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as Photobell Co., Inc., Automatic Smoke Alarm and Shut-Off Model SM2 as described in this report for use in New York City for heavy fuel oil burning and soft coal burning heating plants when installed to the satisfaction of the Department of Air Pollution Control and provided that the installation will not interfere with the operation of the safety controls on the burner when connected to a burner shut off, or in any way with the draft or passage of flue gases through the heating device. The Committee further recommends that each installation bear a label, permanently affixed, reading, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 287-63-SA".

RULES

Fire Drill Rules, Adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals, October 5, 1923

(593-23-SR)

DEFINITION OF "FIRE DRILL"

The method and practice of the systematic and orderly vacating of a building by its occupants in case of emergency, panic or fire in the least possible time—by the nearest safe means of exit—and the use of fire appliances which shall be provided for the extinguishing or retarding of fire and the safeguarding of human life.

Rule 1.

In all buildings as defined in Article 1, Section 10 of the Labor Law in which fire drills are required pursuant to Section 279 thereof and in any other building in which such drills are required by the Fire Commissioner pursuant to the power conferred in section 491 of the New York City Charter, it shall be the duty of the owners, lessees or tenants to conduct fire drills monthly and at such other times as the Fire Commissioner may direct.

For the purpose of conducting such fire drills the owner or tenants shall appoint from among their employees such responsible and dependable persons, male or female, who shall efficiently perform the duties of the various positions of the fire drill organization, as specified on the accompanying chart.

It shall be the duty of the owner or tenant to enter in the blank spaces provided for that purpose in said chart the names of persons so selected and post said chart and copies of the rules in a conspicuous place.

Rule 2. Duties of Foreman.

The Foreman or Person in Charge shall direct, enforce and have full charge of the "Fire Drill" in every factory on each floor. Each day before work is begun he shall see that extinguishers, fire hose, fire buckets, etc., are in readiness for use, exit doors are unlocked, aisles are free from obstruction, that stairways, halls, etc., are properly lighted, and shall remedy any dangerous condition found to exist. Immediately after work is commenced he shall check up the Fire Drill Organization list and note if the regularly assigned persons are present; if any are found to be absent, he shall assign other employees (if practicable) to perform their duties.

He shall immediately notify new employees of the existence of the Fire Drill Organization and give them the necessary instructions as to the duties they are to perform, etc.

He shall be familiar with the operation and location of the interior alarm signal box on his floor.

He shall listen for the test signal each morning at the appointed hour and in the event of the test signal not being heard he shall communicate with the superintendent or other person in charge of the building and advise him of the fact. The (Floor Captain's) Foreman's orders are final as to the carrying out of the fire drill on his particular floor.

Rule 3. Duties of Watchmen.

The WATCHMEN shall see that all doors and windows are closed so as to prevent the spread of fire. The WATCHMEN shall be the only persons permitted to remain on the floor during the progress of a fire drill and do so at their own risk. For ordinary purposes only one watchman and a substitute shall be designated. In special cases, however, extra watchmen may be assigned by consent in writing from Fire Commissioner.

Rule 4. Duties of Searchers.

The MALE AND FEMALE SEARCHERS shall search all toilets, dressing rooms and emergency rooms used and frequented by their sex and all other portions of the floor and order all persons, except those authorized to remain, to leave the premises. They are to take care of and assist all persons who may faint or be disabled.

SEARCHERS shall leave the floor immediately after the last squad leaves.

Rule 5. Duties of Street Alarm Box Runner.

The STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall be familiar with the location of the nearest city fire alarm box and know how it is operated.

In ordinary practice fire drills the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall report to the Foreman for orders, and if his services are not required he shall promptly file out of the premises with the other occupants.

Only when a fire actually occurs on his floor, or when ordered to do so by the Foreman, shall the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER proceed to the street alarm box and send in the fire alarm.

Rule 6. Duties of Fire Brigade.

The fire brigade shall have full charge of the operation of all auxiliary fire fighting apparatus and shall endeavor to extinguish, or at least hold in check until the arrival of the Fire Department, any fire that may occur. When it is necessary for the fire brigade to respond to different floors in the building they shall not use the stairways or fire escapes while the occupants are escaping from the premises.

Rule 7. Duties of Exit Guards.

The EXIT GUARDS shall station themselves at all exit doors leading to fire escapes, stairways, and other means of escape immediately upon the sounding of the alarm. There shall be two guards for each exit, if practicable; one to stand in the hallway holding back the door and the other directly inside on the floor. They are to keep the exit doors open and direct the movements of the persons using these exits and prevent congestion.

EXIT GUARDS shall remain at their stations until all of the occupants of the building have passed their station. Then close their doors and pass out of the building. Upon signal for the occupants to return, EXIT GUARDS shall take their designated stations and remain there until all persons have returned to their respective floors.

Rule 8. Duties of Squad Monitors.

The SQUAD MONITORS, as soon as the alarm is sounded, shall see that the employees under their charge quickly form into line, two abreast, and numbering not more than thirty to each squad. They shall see that all aisles and passageways are cleared of obstructions.

Note: Chairs, stools, baskets, etc., should be pushed under or placed on top of work benches.

MONITORS shall proceed at the head of their respective squads to the exit assigned, and then march up or down the stairs or to other exits as directed by the

EXIT GUARDS.

On reaching the sidewalk MONITORS shall keep their squads in order and lead them a reasonable distance from the building, so as not to cause congestion and interference with fire apparatus. When the proper signal is given they shall return to their respective floors at head of their squads.

RULES

Fire Drill Rules, Adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals, October 5, 1923

(593-23-SR)

DEFINITION OF "FIRE DRILL"

The method and practice of the systematic and orderly vacating of a building by its occupants in case of emergency, panic or fire in the least possible time—by the nearest safe means of exit—and the use of fire appliances which shall be provided for the extinguishing or retarding of fire and the safeguarding of human life.

Rule 1.

In all buildings as defined in Article 1, Section 10 of the Labor Law in which fire drills are required pursuant to Section 279 thereof and in any other building in which such drills are required by the Fire Commissioner pursuant to the power conferred in section 491 of the New York City Charter, it shall be the duty of the owners, lessees or tenants to conduct fire drills monthly and at such other times as the Fire Commissioner may direct.

For the purpose of conducting such fire drills the owner or tenants shall appoint from among their employees such responsible and dependable persons, male or female, who shall efficiently perform the duties of the various positions of the fire drill organization, as specified on the accompanying chart.

It shall be the duty of the owner or tenant to enter in the blank spaces provided for that purpose in said chart the names of persons so selected and post said chart and copies of the rules in a conspicuous place.

Rule 2. Duties of Foreman.

The Foreman or Person in Charge shall direct, enforce and have full charge of the "Fire Drill" in every factory on each floor. Each day before work is begun he shall see that extinguishers, fire hose, fire buckets, etc., are in readiness for use, exit doors are unlocked, aisles are free from obstruction, that stairways, halls, etc., are properly lighted, and shall remedy any dangerous condition found to exist. Immediately after work is commenced he shall check up the Fire Drill Organization list and note if the regularly assigned persons are present; if any are found to be absent, he shall assign other employees (if practicable) to perform their duties.

He shall immediately notify new employees of the existence of the Fire Drill Organization and give them the necessary instructions as to the duties they are to perform, etc.

He shall be familiar with the operation and location of the interior alarm signal box on his floor.

He shall listen for the test signal each morning at the appointed hour and in the event of the test signal not being heard he shall communicate with the superintendent or other person in charge of the building and advise him of the fact. The (Floor Captain's) Foreman's orders are final as to the carrying out of the fire drill on his particular floor.

Rule 3. Duties of Watchmen.

The WATCHMEN shall see that all doors and windows are closed so as to prevent the spread of fire. The WATCHMEN shall be the only persons permitted to remain on the floor during the progress of a fire drill and do so at their own risk. For ordinary purposes only one watchman and a substitute shall be designated. In special cases, however, extra watchmen may be assigned by consent in writing from Fire Commissioner.

Rule 4. Duties of Searchers.

The MALE AND FEMALE SEARCHERS shall search all toilets, dressing rooms and emergency rooms used and frequented by their sex and all other portions of the floor and order all persons, except those authorized to remain, to leave the premises. They are to take care of and assist all persons who may faint or be disabled.

SEARCHERS shall leave the floor immediately after the last squad leaves.

Rule 5. Duties of Street Alarm Box Runner.

The STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall be familiar with the location of the nearest city fire alarm box and know how it is operated.

In ordinary practice fire drills the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall report to the Foreman for orders, and if his services are not required he shall promptly file out of the premises with the other occupants.

Only when a fire actually occurs on his floor, or when ordered to do so by the Foreman, shall the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER proceed to the street alarm box and send in the fire alarm.

Rule 6. Duties of Fire Brigade.

The fire brigade shall have full charge of the operation of all auxiliary fire fighting apparatus and shall endeavor to extinguish, or at least hold in check until the arrival of the Fire Department, any fire that may occur. When it is necessary for the fire brigade to respond to different floors in the building they shall not use the stairways or fire escapes while the occupants are escaping from the premises.

Rule 7. Duties of Exit Guards.

The EXIT GUARDS shall station themselves at all exit doors leading to fire escapes, stairways, and other means of escape immediately upon the sounding of the alarm. There shall be two guards for each exit, if practicable; one to stand in the hallway holding back the door and the other directly inside on the floor. They are to keep the exit doors open and direct the movements of the persons using these exits and prevent congestion.

EXIT GUARDS shall remain at their stations until all of the occupants of the building have passed their station. Then close their doors and pass out of the building. Upon signal for the occupants to return, EXIT GUARDS shall take their designated stations and remain there until all persons have returned to their respective floors.

Rule 8. Duties of Squad Monitors.

The SQUAD MONITORS, as soon as the alarm is sounded, shall see that the employees under their charge quickly form into line, two abreast, and numbering not more than thirty to each squad. They shall see that all aisles and passageways are cleared of obstructions.

Note: Chairs, stools, baskets, etc., should be pushed under or placed on top of work benches.

MONITORS shall proceed at the head of their respective squads to the exit assigned, and then march up or down the stairs or to other exits as directed by the

EXIT GUARDS.

On reaching the sidewalk MONITORS shall keep their squads in order and lead them a reasonable distance from the building, so as not to cause congestion and interference with fire apparatus. When the proper signal is given they shall return to their respective floors at head of their squads.

COURT DECISIONS.

Matter of Grimaldi vs. Foley:—On May 2, 1961, the Board granted a variance under Sections 7f and 7i of the Zoning Resolution, to permit in a retail use district, the erection and maintenance of a gasoline service station, lubritorium, minor auto repairs, car washing, storage room office and sales, ground sign parking and storage of motor vehicles of the pleasure-car type only for a term of twenty years; Calendar Number 707-60-BZ; Premises 5201-5215 Avenue N and 1643-1653 East 52nd Street, northeast corner, Block 7877, Lots 4, 5, 7, and 9 Borough of Brooklyn.

In Article 78 proceeding, petitioner sought to annul determination of the Board. At Supreme Court, Special Term, Part I, Mr. Justice Eilperin dismissed the petition.

(N. Y. Law Journal, January 10, 1963, page 18).

The Appellate Division, Second Judicial Department, By Kleinfeld, Acting, P. J., Christ, Brennan, Hill and Hopkins, JJ. in the Matter of Grimaldi, pet-ap (Foley, res; Fifty States Realty Corporation, intervenor-res) rendered the following decision:

"Motion by appellants to dispense with printing of the minutes and exhibits denied. While ostensibly appellants seek to dispense with printing, actually their purpose is to abridge the record; such an application should be made at Special Term. Hence, the denial of this motion is without prejudice to an application at the Special Term to abridge the record, and without prejudice to any further motion in this court after disposition by the Special Term of such application, if made (cf. Young v. Taber, 9 App. Div. 2d 631; People ex rel. Lowenstein v. Lowenstein, 281 App. Div. 699). Motion by appellants to enlarge time to perfect their appeal granted; time enlarged to the May term beginning April 29, 1963; appeal ordered on the calendar for said term."

(N. Y. Law Journal, February 20, 1963, page 17).

At Supreme Court, Special Term, Part I, Mr. Justice DiGiovanna rendered the following decision:

"The prior granting of a motion on default to abridge the record is vacated and upon consideration of all the papers submitted the motion is denied. The court agrees with the respondent that it is necessary for the incorporation of all of the papers in the record before the appellate court. Submit order."

(N. Y. Law Journal, March 21, 1963, page 16).

The Appellate Division, Second Judicial Department, By Beldock, P.J.; Ughetta, Brennan, Hill and Hopkins, JJ. rendered the following decision:

"Motion by appellants to abridge the record on appeal and to further enlarge time to perfect appeal. Motion denied in toto."

(N. Y. Law Journal, May 2, 1963, page 15).

The Appellate Division, Second Judicial Department, By Ughetta, Acting P.J.; Kleinfeld, Christ, Brennan and Rabin, JJ. rendered the following decision:

"1011: Motion by appellants to dispense with printing denied. 1028: Cross-motion by intervenor-respondent to dismiss appeal denied on condition that appellants perfect and be ready to argue or submit the appeal at the September term, beginning September 9, 1963, for which term the appeal has already been ordered on the calendar. The record and appellant's brief must be served and filed on or before July 12, 1963."

(N. Y. Law Journal, May 28, 1963, page 16).

USE: To bond plaster to concrete.

DESCRIPTION: The material is an emulsion of resins containing 50% total solids. The solution also contains plasticizers. The mixture is of a proprietary nature and therefore the Board has placed the formula in a sealed envelope and placed it in the Board's safe so that it can be examined at any time if the need arises.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Tests were conducted by Froehling and Robertson Inc. The tests consisted of taking half briquets of cement mortar, coating the face of the throat of the briquet with Bondall and then making the other half by moulding with brown coat plaster, acoustical plaster, perlite plaster and finish plaster; the specimens were then tested in tension and in all cases the specimens failed in the base material and not at the bond line.

The material was also tested in shear and the shear failure was of 334 p.s.i.

Both tests showed that the material met the requirements of Military Specification MIL-B-19235.

The reports are on file with and are part of the record. RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the inspection and test and the data filed by the applicant, the Committee on Test recommends the approval of the material known as Bondall as manufactured by Allied Composition Co., Inc., for voluntary use in New York City as a bonding agent to bond plaster to concrete or to cement mortar; the Committee further recommends that this material may be used as an DESCRIPTION: The basic deck used in the Hi-Bond system is the same as the deck approved as a floor construction under Calendar Number 984-54-SM and as roof construction under Calendar Number 894-54-SM. The webs of the deck members have been deformed by lugs formed into the webs. These lugs form a lateral and vertical mechanical bond between the concrete and the steel panel.

The various designations of the deck refer to the configuration and depth.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The applicant has submitted reports of tests conducted by Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory and Halis Testing Laboratories to check, by test, the load tables as calculated by accepted engineering formulae as permitted under C26-626.0 Administrative Building Code and as set forth in the applicant's Catalogue No. 270, 1963. The applicant has also submitted the report of a test conducted by the Underwriters Laboratories. The construction consisted of the cellular units with a $2\frac{1}{2}$ inch reinforced concrete topping, $2\frac{1}{2}$ inches measured from the top plane of the cellular units. The underside of the deck was protected with $\frac{1}{2}$ inch of Cafco Blaze-Shield approved by the Board, this fireproofing material shall be tamped to the $\frac{1}{2}$ inch thickness. The construction is in accordance with Drawings 3789-3 and 3749 which is on file with and part of the record.

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

80-63-SA—M. Kweller for Glover Industries Incorporated, Kansas City, Mo., filed for approval of the appliance known as Glover Dry Cleaning Machine Coin-Operated and Non-Coin Operated Models 20CDE, 20CDS, 20DE, 20DS, under the provisions of the Board's Rules Covering Coin Operated Dry Cleaning Establishments adopted under Calendar Number 156-62-SR and the Board's Rules Covering Dry Cleaning Establishments adopted under Calendar Number 958-47-SR—Vol. II. The Model 20CDE will also be marketed by the Norge Division of Borg-Warner Corp. as the Norge Model 42 NDD-201.

USE: Dry cleaning machines using perchlorethylene solvent.

DESCRIPTION: The Model 20CDE Glover Dry Cleaning Machine is a coin-operated machine, completely automatic.

The machine employs a single stainless steel washer basket 18" by 36" in which the washing, extracting and drying of the clothes is accomplished.

The other components include a 55 gallon solvent tank, a solvent pump, filter, filter powder feeder, drain valve, muck tank, lint and button trap, water cooled condenser, water separator, electrical air heater, recirculating blower, controls including air operated (20 p.s.i.) timer and exhaust blower.

When the correct number of coins is inserted in the coin receiver for the weight of clothes to be cleaned the basket door is automatically locked and filtered perchlorethylene is admitted to the washer chamber. The basket within the chamber oscillates back and forth three times per minute and a constant flow of filtered solvent is passed through the clothes.

After the washing cycle the basket speed is increased for extracting solvent and moisture from the clothes. During this spin cycle heated air is recirculated through the load and the recirculation of heated air is continued through the drying cycle which follows. This heated air is passed through a water cooled condenser, condensing solvent and moisture which flow to a separator. The solvent drains to the tank and the water is drained to waste.

After drying, the heat is cut off, the clothes are cooled down and the final aeration cycle begins during which fresh air is passed through the clothes and exhausted to outdoors.

After completion of the entire dry cleaning cycle the basket door can then be opened and the exhaust fan will automatically start.

The Model 20CDS is similar to the Model 20CDE except that low pressure steam is supplied from an external source for heating the drying air.

The Model 20DE is similar to the Model 20CDE except that it is not designed for coin operation.

The Model 20DS is similar to the Model 20DE except that low pressure steam is supplied from an external source for heating the drying air.

INSPECTION AND TEST: A Model 20DE was inspected at premises 310 Troy Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., by Assistant Engineer George F. Sklenarik. Present was Mr. M. Kweller representing the applicant. The cubic content of the 18" x 36" basket is 10.6 cubic feet. On the basis of 2.8 lbs. per cu. ft. the maximum capacity is 29.68 pounds.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as Glover Dry Cleaning Machine, Coin-Operated and Non-Coin Operated, Models 20CDE, 20CDS, 20DE, 20DS for use in New York City where permitted by the Zoning Resolution and for coin-operated machines when installed and operated in accordance with the Board's Rules Covering Coin-Operated Dry Cleaning Establishments, Calendar Number 156-62-SR, and for non-coin operated machines when installed and operated in accordance with the Board's Rules Covering Dry Cleaning Establishments, Calendar Number 958-47-SR—Vol. II, provided that each machine shall bear a label, permanently affixed, reading, "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 80-63-SA".

The Committee further recommends that on each machine there be displayed the maximum dry load capacity of 29.68 pounds for the basket and that all electrical installation work conform to the Electrical Code of the City of New York, and that exhaust air flow through the loading door opening shall be at least 100 c.f.m.

It is further recommended that the Model 20CDE may be marketed by the Norge Division of Borg-Warner Corporation as the Norge Model 42 NDD-201.

RULES

Fire Drill Rules, Adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals, October 5, 1923

(593-23-SR)

DEFINITION OF "FIRE DRILL"

The method and practice of the systematic and orderly vacating of a building by its occupants in case of emergency, panic or fire in the least possible time—by the nearest safe means of exit—and the use of fire appliances which shall be provided for the extinguishing or retarding of fire and the safeguarding of human life.

Rule 1.

In all buildings as defined in Article 1, Section 10 of the Labor Law in which fire drills are required pursuant to Section 279 thereof and in any other building in which such drills are required by the Fire Commissioner pursuant to the power conferred in section 491 of the New York City Charter, it shall be the duty of the owners, lessees or tenants to conduct fire drills monthly and at such other times as the Fire Commissioner may direct.

For the purpose of conducting such fire drills the owner or tenants shall appoint from among their employees such responsible and dependable persons, male or female, who shall efficiently perform the duties of the various positions of the fire drill organization, as specified on the accompanying chart.

It shall be the duty of the owner or tenant to enter in the blank spaces provided for that purpose in said chart the names of persons so selected and post said chart and copies of the rules in a conspicuous place.

Rule 2. Duties of Foreman.

The Foreman or Person in Charge shall direct, enforce and have full charge of the "Fire Drill" in every factory on each floor. Each day before work is begun he shall see that extinguishers, fire hose, fire buckets, etc., are in readiness for use, exit doors are unlocked, aisles are free from obstruction, that stairways, halls, etc., are properly lighted, and shall remedy any dangerous condition found to exist. Immediately after work is commenced he shall check up the Fire Drill Organization list and note if the regularly assigned persons are present; if any are found to be absent, he shall assign other employees (if practicable) to perform their duties.

He shall immediately notify new employees of the existence of the Fire Drill Organization and give them the necessary instructions as to the duties they are to perform, etc.

He shall be familiar with the operation and location of the interior alarm signal box on his floor.

He shall listen for the test signal each morning at the appointed hour and in the event of the test signal not being heard he shall communicate with the superintendent or other person in charge of the building and advise him of the fact. The (Floor Captain's) Foreman's orders are final as to the carrying out of the fire drill on his particular floor.

Rule 3. Duties of Watchmen.

The WATCHMEN shall see that all doors and windows are closed so as to prevent the spread of fire. The WATCHMEN shall be the only persons permitted to remain on the floor during the progress of a fire drill and do so at their own risk. For ordinary purposes only one watchman and a substitute shall be designated. In special cases, however, extra watchmen may be assigned by consent in writing from Fire Commissioner.

Rule 4. Duties of Searchers.

The MALE AND FEMALE SEARCHERS shall search all toilets, dressing rooms and emergency rooms used and frequented by their sex and all other portions of the floor and order all persons, except those authorized to remain, to leave the premises. They are to take care of and assist all persons who may faint or be disabled.

SEARCHERS shall leave the floor immediately after the last squad leaves.

Rule 5. Duties of Street Alarm Box Runner.

The STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall be familiar with the location of the nearest city fire alarm box and know how it is operated.

In ordinary practice fire drills the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER shall report to the Foreman for orders, and if his services are not required he shall promptly file out of the premises with the other occupants.

Only when a fire actually occurs on his floor, or when ordered to do so by the Foreman, shall the STREET-ALARM-BOX-RUNNER proceed to the street alarm box and send in the fire alarm.

Rule 6. Duties of Fire Brigade.

The fire brigade shall have full charge of the operation of all auxiliary fire fighting apparatus and shall endeavor to extinguish, or at least hold in check until the arrival of the Fire Department, any fire that may occur. When it is necessary for the fire brigade to respond to different floors in the building they shall not use the stairways or fire escapes while the occupants are escaping from the premises.

Rule 7. Duties of Exit Guards.

The EXIT GUARDS shall station themselves at all exit doors leading to fire escapes, stairways, and other means of escape immediately upon the sounding of the alarm. There shall be two guards for each exit, if practicable; one to stand in the hallway holding back the door and the other directly inside on the floor. They are to keep the exit doors open and direct the movements of the persons using these exits and prevent congestion.

EXIT GUARDS shall remain at their stations until all of the occupants of the building have passed their station. Then close their doors and pass out of the building. Upon signal for the occupants to return, EXIT GUARDS shall take their designated stations and remain there until all persons have returned to their respective floors.

Rule 8. Duties of Squad Monitors.

The SQUAD MONITORS, as soon as the alarm is sounded, shall see that the employees under their charge quickly form into line, two abreast, and numbering not more than thirty to each squad. They shall see that all aisles and passageways are cleared of obstructions.

Note: Chairs, stools, baskets, etc., should be pushed under or placed on top of work benches.

MONITORS shall proceed at the head of their respective squads to the exit assigned, and then march up or down the stairs or to other exits as directed by the

EXIT GUARDS.

On reaching the sidewalk MONITORS shall keep their squads in order and lead them a reasonable distance from the building, so as not to cause congestion and interference with fire apparatus. When the proper signal is given they shall return to their respective floors at head of their squads.
